Historic Downtown Fort Myers, Then And Now:

Armistice Day, A Lost Holiday

by Gerri Reaves, PhD

s we observe Veterans Day, it's worth remembering that it began almost a century ago as Armistice Day, a day when Apeace swept the world and humankind rejoiced.

World War I (WWI) ended.

The Allied powers signed a cease-fire agreement with Germany at Rethondes, France at 5 a.m. and it became effective six hours later at 11 a.m.

Thus, on November 11, 1918, at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, peace prevailed.

As originally conceived, Armistice Day was an unusual holiday in that it evoked a broad range of emotions. Wild joy, solemnity and abject sorrow were all justified and appropriate.

More than nine million people died in WWI, which was also called "the War to End All Wars." If only it had been.

This photo illustrates how just a handful of happy Fort Myers citizens reacted to the end of the war, then known as the Great War.

Fort Myers learned of the proposed Armistice from an Associated Press newswire sent to the local Atlantic Coast Line Railroad station. (It was so early that Western Union was not open.)

Citizens celebrated in the streets when World War I was declared over on November 11, 1918. These five citizens were photographed in the heart of town in front of Hunter's Drugstore: from left, Esther Sherouse, dressed as Lady Liberty; Mr. Black; Sara Yelvington; Annabelle Hand, holding an American flag; and Charles Bell Jennings, holding a newspaper with the headline, "War Ended At 6."

The news was greeted with the uproarious sounds of train whistles, the big whistles at the Southern Utilities Company, church bells, automobile horns, noises from the steamboats and submarines chasers, guns, pie plates - anything handy.

Accounts suggest that the scene resembled an impromptu street party. In those days, news spread in a more person-to-person manner. No cable TV news, no iPhones, no Internet, no Facebook or email.

The order of the day was celebrating. Motorists drove around shouting for sheer joy. And, there was a parade to plan and a city to decorate.

The town held on to that celebratory feeling for years after the 1918 Armistice. For example, in 1920, the mayor declared November 11 a holiday, businesses closed, and the American Legion organized a baseball game between former Army and Navy members of Post 38. Other activities ensued, including a banquet and dance at the

In 1925, a grand parade was held, and newspaper coverage indicated that memories of WWI's slaughter were still fresh amid the Fourth of July-like revelry. A moment of silence was observed at the monument honoring the WWI dead at the Lee County

In 1933, the holiday attitude still prevailed. The American Legion organized an Armistice Day celebration expected to attract at least five thousand people from the Festivities began in the late morning with a parade down First Street to City Park, where a patriotic ceremony attended by military dignitaries was held. The Fort Myers junior band and the American Legion trumpet and drum corps sounded taps for the reverent moment of silence and a salute. Then, the celebration continued until mid-

In 1934, the two-day Armistice Day celebration ranged from a fish fry for over 2,000 to religious ceremonies. Events began on Sunday, the eleventh, just after aryland artist Cheryl Foster was back in town on October 23. Before she left, Foster installed a new public artwork in Clemente Park. The brightly colored 5×10 foot

The piece depicts the silhouetted heads of an African-American male, female and child, and includes fused glass pieces that the community helped Foster make at an event she hosted on Easter Sunday at the Friendship Missionary Baptist Church on Palm Avenue.

Through the piece, both Foster and the City of Fort Myers Public Art Community seek to draw attention to the accomplishments of the Dunbar community, both past and future, speak to the rich and complex history of the African-American community, enhance the park, promote a Public offices, schools, and businesses closed the following day, on which social events such as dances were enjoyed.

By the hectic WWII (WWII) years, the customary ways of remembering "the War to End All Wars" must have seemed ironic. Besides, there was a current conflict to focus on, support and survive.

In the years following WW II, memories of the recent war no doubt dominated those of the Great War. And then came the Korean War in the early 1950s.

In 1954, U.S. legislation renamed November 11 Veterans Day in honor of veterans of all U.S. wars. And by then, there were certainly more veterans, battles, and misery to remember.

Quadricylce Replica Project

Volunteer Gathering on November 16 at 5:30 p.m., Edison Ford Museum

The volunteer team building the Ford Quadricycle gather in the museum with Automotive Curator Jim Moss and Registrar Matt Andres. The quadricycle was the first vehicle Henry Ford made, with a simple frame, engine and bicycle tires. Ford's work on the quadricycle led to the founding of the famous Ford Motor Company several years later. The group includes machinists, patent holders and inventors as well as car enthusiasts. Some members of the group had started work and brought in items related to their past projects, including photographs and scale components of another replica quadricycle. But more help is needed for the months ahead. Meetings are held the third Monday of every month.

If you are interested, contact Chief Curator Mike Cosden at 334-7419 or mcosden@edisonfordwinterestates.org.

It is anticipated that the operating replica of the 1896 Ford Quadricycle will be finished by winter of 2016. This will be one of the few in the nation and certainly one of the most accurate replicas. Edison Ford began work on this project about a year ago and created design documents and machine shop plans. The team is also working with The Henry Ford, Greenfield Village and Sam Galloway Ford in Southwest Florida. It is suggested to call ahead to see what the needs of the project might be throughout the year. Participation is free and will include a free Edison Ford Quadricycle Project t-shirt.

Aviation Day is an annual community event hosted by the Lee County Port Authority with the purpose of increasing awareness of our airports – Southwest Florida International Airport (RSW) and Page Field (FMY).

Aviation Day 2015 will feature a special appearance by Capt. Barrington Irving, the first African-American to fly solo around the world and one of the youngest people in the world to accomplish the achievement. Additionally, there will be five featured aircraft at the event: a Douglas SBD-5, a North American B-25J Mitchell, a Grumman TBM-3E Avenger, a Douglas C-47 Skytrain and a Douglas DC-3.

The SBD-5 Dauntless was a World War II carrier-based scout, dive and torpedo bomber.

The B-25J Mitchell Killer B is a twin-engine medium bomber that became standard equipment for the Allied Air Forces in World War II.

The TBM-3E Avenger entered service in 1942 and became one of the most outstanding torpedo bombers of World War II.

The C-47 Skytrain Tico Belle – a modified version of the DC-3 – was a U.S. Army Air Force military transport aircraft that participated in the Normandy invasion.

The DC-3 Flagship Detroit is a fixed-wing propeller aircraft manufactured by Douglas Aircraft in 1937. It served as an American Airlines passenger plane and is the second oldest flying DC-3 in the world.

Other attractions at Aviation Day include experimental, antique and general aviation aircraft exhibits, airplane and helicopter rides, children's activities including bounce houses, movie showings, character appearances, clowns and face painting, demonstrations by airport police and fire departments, aviation-themed shopping and exhibitors, refreshments and more.

Although parking and admission are free, attendees are asked to help our local community by bringing non-perishable food items. Theatre Conspiracy Annual Fundraiser

by Di Saggau

upporters of Theatre Conspiracy once again gathered to take part in the festivities of the 17th annual New Play Fundraiser held October 30 at the Alliance for the Arts. During the social hour, everyone enjoyed wine and appetizers prepared by Cristof's restaurant. Then it was time to enter the theater to hear readings from the final three contestants in the new play contest. Artistic Director Bill Taylor said he received over 600 entries, some from as far away as England and Australia.

A group of local actors lent their talents to the readings from Brilliant Works of Art, Tribunal and Vacuum. Then it was time for the audience to vote for their favorite. The winner was Vacuum, which will be performed May 6 through 21. It's a play that deals with deception, sexual intrigue and corporate power plays. Taylor also announced that Tribunal, which takes place in postwar Nuremberg and deals with historical history of that period, will be produced next season and taken to local high schools. 公

Great Variety Continues

by Capt. Matt

fter battling with strong winds for what seems like weeks, things finally wind up, giving way to calm, near perfect conditions out on the water. Warming water temperatures and daytime low tides were certainly not the best set-up, although the fishing action was pretty consistent if you worked at it and kept an open mind on what species to target. Mixed bag was the best way to describe the week's fishing, with a crazy variety of species caught both in the bay and on the beaches.

I'm still running out along the beach and looking for birds and fast-paced action on Bonita and Spanish mackerel. This bite, once located, is wide-open with fish hooked on just about every cast when throwing small spoons and jigs. Following feeding birds in the sound slowed some this week with the warming water temperatures.

Inshore snook action this week seemed just a little off. These fish get in a patten and with the wind direction changing daily, if not every hour, I could not seem to patten them. Every snook hole fished was good for one or two usually small fish, then the bite would just quit. I did have a client land a keeper snook this week on the very first cast of the charter. This, as a fishing guide, is usually a bad omen, although the client was very happy with his first ever snook. After catching a few redfish on this same shoreline, the omen proved true and things did not get any better than that first cast of the day.

Catching the right size bait for snook has also been part of the problem too. The shiners are either too large or too tiny. There has been a noticeable lack of the perfect size snook candy shiners we are used to fishing with. Bait on the causeway bridges is a mix of threadfins and shiners, with almost everything on the small side. These small baits work well for live chumming but with so much small stuff, it takes you longer to clean the gilled bait out of your cast net than it does to load the live well. On the flats. we have an abundance of pinfish along with a few large shiners. I have been going to the bridge first, making one throw and then cleaning the net while I chum out on the flat for the larger baits.

If you have the patience to fish with just a large pinfish and big turbo shiners, the fish are eating them, although you have to put in your time and work for a few big strikes. These larger baits produce the biggest fish of the week, which included a few monster snook hooked along with some gag grouper on deeper shorelines. The smaller shiners caught a great mixed bag of fish including flounder snapper redfish, small snook and trout. Having the small shiners when the bite was a little slow made all the difference in the world as just about everything will eat them.

Trout fishing remained strong this week with both shiners and live shrimp fished under a popping cork catching limits of trout along with lots of Jacks and ladyfish. Flats in the middle to northern sound with clear water were the better trout action. When other more prized species did not want to cooperate, these trout were a great option. Flats and sandy potholes from Hemp Key to Bird

Key were the most productive.

CROW Case Of The Week:

Pied-Billed Grebe

by Patricia Molloy

ied-billed grebes (Podilymbus podiceps) are fascinating little birds. Small and duck-like in appearance, they live in freshwater habitats and occasionally slightly brackish waters.

While some pied-billed grebes live in Florida year-round, many migrate to the northern U.S. and Canada during the spring and summer. Populations of the waterfowl increase dramatically in winter

Pied-billed grebes, like all grebes, are excellent swimmers and divers thanks to the fact that their feet are placed farther back on their bodies than most waterfowl. As a result, they are able to move their feet above, below or level with their bodies underwater. While the unusual leg placement allows for greater agility in the water, it makes them extremely awkward on land as they cannot stand. In order to become airborne, pied-billed grebes require a long "runway" on the surface of the water. Once in they air, they are strong fliers, but lack a lot of maneuverability.

Once a breeding pair have selected one another, they will work together to build a floating nest. Each grebe will dive for fresh and decomposing plants at the bottom of a calm lake to construct the nest, then anchored it to aquatic plants that offer a bit of camouflage.

Another interesting fact about piedbilled grebes is that they pluck and swallow hundreds of their own feathers in order to protect their intestines against lacerations caused by ingesting fish bones and shards of crayfish shells.

This past weekend, a pied-billed grebe was admitted to CROW as patient #15-3189. "He was found on the road and was likely hit by a car," said Dr. Molly. Remarkably, no broken bones were palpated upon presentation and the grebe appeared to be bright, alert and at a healthy weight.

"The radiographs and bloodwork looked fairly normal. His neurological exam and his visual exam were fine and he's been eating very well. He seems to be pretty healthy, so I think he was just grazed (by a car) very lightly," the veterinarian intern explained. "We are giving him one more day of physical therapy, then we'll probably get him out of here as soon as possible.

Salt-And-Pepper

by Gerri Reaves

Inlike many members of the aster family that have both disk and ray flowers (petals), salt-and-pepper (Melanthera nivea) has only disk flowers.

Rounded flower heads at the stem ends are packed with white tubular flowers. The anthers, a portion of the male flower parts, are like black specks against the white.

The word melanthera means black anther in ancient Greek and nivea derives from Latin words meaning snow or full of snow. The speckling of black speckles snow white inspires another common name, nonpareil, a chocolate disk sprinkled with white sugar pellets.

This perennial wildflower is a larval host plant for the Florida white butterfly and a nectar plant for many other butterflies and skippers, such as the cassius blue, gray hairstreak and gulf fritillary, as well as native bees and wasps.

Salt-and-pepper grows erect or sprawling, reaching two to six feet high, and blooms throughout the year. After pollination, flowers form achenes, one-seeded fruits, which are released after the flowers are spent.

The leaves are coarse and arrowheadshaped with two basal lobes. The square stems give the flower yet another common name, snow squarestem.

This resilient wildflower is recommended for a butterfly garden or natural landscape, but because it can be leggy and weedy, not as a specimen plant.

Give it a moist but well-drained spot in full sun or light shade. It will grow even in poor soil but needs some organic content.

It is drought-tolerant but not very salt-tolerant.

Propagate it with seeds, cuttings or clump division – or, just let it self-sow. Prune it for fuller growth and remove the mature flower heads to control its spread.

Fair At Fenway

An exhibit new to the fair in 2015, the Kangaroo Experience is a collection of kangaroos on display where there will be several opportunities each day to learn more about the kangaroos and meet them up close and personal.

Award-wining illusionist Lance Gifford, who has toured much of the U.S. and

He and his company perform some of the world's most amazing illusions including the "Metamorphosis," once performed by the late great Harry Houdini. Gifford's show can be seen live at the fair several times each day.

On Friday and Saturday nights at 10, the Las Vegas hypnotist show will make believers of the audience, as the hypnotist persuades a man to dance like Beyoncé, convinces fairgoers it's sunny at night and more.

Another crowd favorite is the Banana Derby, a race where monkeys dressed in jockey outfits race on trained dogs around a track. Fairgoers may even meet the monkeys up close for photo opportunities after the races, which are held several times each day.

The fair also features a large petting zoo and exotic animal exhibit where attendees may observe lemurs, exotic birds, monkeys and dozens of creatures normally only found in the best zoos in the U.S. This attraction is open during all fair hours.

All live entertainment and shows are free with fair admission.

Organizers say this year's event is shaping up to be the biggest show in the last several years with new features and more manufacturers and boats on display than ever before.

New this year is the Be A Diver pool, located in the boat ramp area. This unique, interactive display allows show visitors to get in the 20-foot by 30-foot, 15,000-gallon mobile pool with certified instructors and experience the basics of scuba diving. Dressing rooms, towels, the newest diving equipment including wetsuits and fins, air compressors and a registration pavilion are included in this new attraction.

'This has been a very popular attraction at water-related events across the country, so we are very excited to bring it to the Fort Myers Boat Show," said John Good, show manager for the Southwest Florida Marine Industries Association. "While the Internet is a great tool for research, there is no substitute to see and feel marine products up close and actually talk to industry experts about your interests and needs. This is just about the perfect setting for a show with a unique combination of indoor, outdoor and in-

In water at the City Yacht Basin will be both new and brokerage boats of every description to nearly 80 feet in length.

"We are seeing bigger displays with bigger boats from many of our major dealers," Good said. "The Fort Myers Boat Show is much more than just boats. Both inside and outside of Harborside Event Center, are displays of engines, electronics, docks, boat lifts, all types of marine services, clothing, nautical gift items and just about everything else you need on a boat.

This show is so consumer and family friendly with a unique combination of indoor, on land and in-water space," Good added. "I'm often asked if boat shows really are a good place to buy a boat. You bet they are. A major show like this is a great place to buy and a great place to see and compare. This show will nepresentatives of the Florida Superior Small Lodging Association (SSL) recently announced 16 Lee County hoteliers have successfully qualified for The distinguished SSL designation. The SSL certification is a statewide hospitality recognition program.

In addition, 15 of the 16 total SSL properties inspected by the Property Review Program (PRP) qualified to receive the coveted Donal A. Dermody White Glove Award for best practices in housekeeping. Properties must receive a score of 100 percent for all components of the housekeeping inspection to be eligible to receive the White Glove Award.

Effective October 1, all members of the SSL will automatically become members of the Florida Restaurant & Lodging Association (FRLA). Additionally, members with restaurants also become members of the National Restaurant Association (NRA).

"Building strong partnerships is vital to the success and effectiveness of any organization," said Scott Rivelli, executive director of SSL. "Through strategic collaboration we become stronger and more effective while gaining access to education, training, funding and programs that are essential to the future of our organizations.

Superior Small Lodging Program

The passing grade for an unexpected inspection in the program is 82 percent and is based on a comprehensive review of six different property attributes: registration/ operations/public places, guest accommodations, bathrooms, bathroom supplies, kitchens, and property exterior.

School Smart

by Shelley M. Greggs, NCSP

Shelley, My 3 1/2 year old daughter has just started preschool and seems much more active compared to her classmates at her preschool. Her attention for group activities is a lot lower than that of other students, and when we try to redirect her from something, she wants to do like staying in centers instead of coming to the rug for group, she will often throw herself onto the ground in tears. The teachers are handling it OK but have commented at the suddenness and intensity of her outbursts. Health wise she seems pretty much like the other kids, but I have noticed that her language is not as advanced as some other children her age. Is my daughter's behavior out-ofcontrol? Should I be worried? Eliza R., Cape Coral

First, there is a wide range of normal behavior in kids. Preschool children typically are very active and haven't fully developed areas of impulse control and self-regulation that allow them to express their emotions and needs in a more effective way. Also, a lack of more complex language development sometimes makes it harder for them to be able to express themselves in productive ways.

Preschool is a very new and different experience for many children. These young children are learning the rules about how the world works, and at times it can be very confusing to them. Try to keep this in mind when you talk to your daughter. Have a consistent structure that she can come to rely on, and use language that she can understand. In general, ignoring small misbehaviors and focusing on positive feedback and reinforcement, in addition to setting very clear expectations, makes it easier for children this age to comply.

Since you mentioned that her language might be less developed that her peers ask the teachers for some vocabulary words to work on at home. Helping her understand and use the specific vocabulary from school may be one way to help her understand better her new world at preschool. Reading with her everyday though is the best way for her to make quick gains in vocabulary and expand her current and future literacy skills.

However, frequent tantrums and emotional meltdowns can be a sign of potential behavioral problems. If your daughter's behaviors continue to seem out of range or increase, interventions fail and her teachers become seriously concerned an evaluation to rule out a behavioral disorder is warranted. Her teachers or your doctor should be able to recommend a behavioral specialist to consult or you could contact your local public school for assistance. There are effective treatments that can help parents and children communicate better as well as increase compliance and pro-social behaviors.

Thinking Of Adopting? Be Prepared For Expenses

by Jennifer Basey

ovember is National Adoption Awareness Month. If you're considering adoption, you know that it will change your life in many ways. And you'll need to prepare for many of these changes - including the financial ones, because adoption can be expen-

The average U.S. adoption costs between $8.000 and $40.000, while the range for international adoptions is $15,000 to $30,000, according to the Child Welfare Information Gateway, a U.S. government-funded adoption information service.

Given these numbers, you might think you'll have a tough time paying for an adoption. However, you can get some financial help in the form of tax benefits, which include both a tax credit for qualified adoption expenses and an exclusion (from your taxable income) of employerprovided adoption assistance. In 2015, the maximum tax benefit you can claim is $13,400; this amount is reduced if your modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) exceeds $201,010 and is completely phased out if your MAGI is $241,010 or more. The adoption tax credit is nonrefundable, which means it's limited to your tax liability for the year.

Here's an example of how you might use the tax benefits. Suppose you pay $13,400 in qualified adoption expenses in 2015 and your employer reimburses you for $3,400 of those expenses. Assuming you meet the MAGI guidelines, you can exclude $3,400 from your gross income for 2015 and can claim $10,000 ($13,400 minus $3,400) for the adoption tax credit. (Tax credits reduce your income tax liability on a dollar-for-dollar basis.)

Of course, while these tax benefits can reduce your overall cost of adoption, you still have to come up with the money - which, as we've seen, can amount to many thousands of dollars - in the first place. How will you do it?

Your first step is to plan ahead – as far ahead as possible. Since the adoption process can often take a year or more, you will generally have some time to prepare. When you find the adoption agency that best meets your needs, get an estimate of the total costs involved. Once you've got this figure, you can determine how you'll meet these costs.

You might be tempted to take out a loan from your 401(k), but you should try to avoid this move - a 401(k) loan will likely reduce the growth potential of this account, which is designed for retirement. You might also consider a loan from a bank - but debt is debt, even if it's for the purpose of expanding your family, and it's always a good idea to keep one's debt level down.

If you knew you wouldn't need the money for, say, two years, you could consider putting away a certain amount each month in a special "adoption fund" in an investment that's highly liquid and offers significant preservation of principal. If the circumstances of your life allow you to plan even farther ahead, such as three to five years, you can find a savings or investment vehicle that may be appropriate for providing the money just when

Adopting a child will change your life. Planning ahead, and carefully considering your options for paying for the adoption, can help you reach this major milestone in a manner that makes financial sense now and in the future.

Realtor Associations Vote To Merge

he boards of the Cape Coral Association of Realtors and the Realtor Association of Greater Fort Myers and the Beach are pleased to announce that the merger between the two organizations has been approved by the members of both Associations.

The Realtor Association of Greater Fort Myers and the Beach had overwhelming support and had the most amount of members voting compared to any other member vote in the history of our Association. This is an important milestone for the Southwest Florida real estate industry, as unifying these two great organizations will make all of us a stronger voice for home ownership, increase efficiencies for all members and ultimately is beneficial to all members and consumers," said Jason Jakus, CEO and managing broker, NextHome Advisors and president, Realtor Association of Greater Fort Myers and the Beach, Inc. "The members of both associations have spoken through their vote and the leadership teams will now come together this week to determine the name of our new association as well as board composition."

'In a record breaking voter turnout, our members voted 92 percent in favor of the merger with Fort Myers," added Paula Hellenbrand, broker/owner, Encore! Realty Services Inc. and president, Cape Coral Association of Realtors, Inc. "The bylaws of the Cape Coral Association of Realtors require a twothirds vote in support of the merger and we far exceeded that high standard with more than 83 percent of our members casting their vote. Together, we are stronger for our members, homeowners and the local industry.'

In the coming weeks, delegates of the two board of directors will determine the board composition and submit a new name with the merger request to the National Association of Realtors for approval. The merger goal is set for January 1, 2016.

The merger will bring the joint membership number to approximately 6,000 members and brings the following benefits to the membership:

- Increased access to education
- Three convenient office locations
- Increased access to trained staff members for education, political and governmental affairs
 - Enhanced service
 - Shared technologies
 - Stronger, unified member base
- Reduced direct costs resulting in the ability to increase member benefits
- Increased opportunity to enhance recognition within community and industry
 - One set of dues

Mom And Me

by Lizzie and Pryce

izzie and Pryce answer your guestions and give advice about aging concerns from a two-generational perspective. A mother and daughter team, Lizzie is a retired RN and health educator, and Pryce is a licensed psychotherapist in private practice who specializes in the care of elders and people with chronic illnesses.

Dear Mom & Me.

I am an older businesswoman working in a very stressful business. All of the women and some of the men realize that a youthful appearance is a must, so we all try our very best – surgery, skincare, exercise, clothing, etc.

What baffles me is how can you keep your age a secret when you are always asked for your birth date and/or driver's license? Where I live, this is your identification, sometimes even in the grocery Nothing seems to be private any more and privacy seems to be a thing of the past and our birthdate is how we are judged. How do you suggest I get around giving this information?

Dear Vera,

Protect your private information as much as you can. If someone asks to see your license, ask why. A cell phone company required copying my license for the two-year contract. I asked why and the staff member said it was "policy." I told them they could look at my license and verify my name and address but not copy. I also told them that if that was not enough I would take my business elsewhere. Apparently, that was good enough for them. They did not copy my license and they got my business. So many people complained, it is no longer their policy.

A friend of mine will not allow any clerk to look at her license when writing a check. She writes her license number on the check herself. Another friend will show her license but hold it in a way to cover up her birthdate.

I believe everyone has the right to protect their privacy and, in this day and age, it is a necessity.

Dear Vera, You are absolutely right; privacy seems to be a thing of the past in our modern society. Some cultures keep private information private and residents have to fight to get the information, but here we all must fight to keep our private information private and it is becoming a losing battle in most areas. Pryce has given you some suggestions; otherwise, just keep up your routine. Good health gives an air of youthful enthusiasm and you seem to be on the right track. Best of luck.

Auxiliaries Donate To Health System

Dee Dee Rizor sits in the recently-donated six passenger golf cart

hrough a variety of fundraising efforts, Lee Memorial Health System Auxiliaries have committed over $1.4 million for new technology, programs and projects to benefit patients and the community in the 2015 fiscal year, according to annual reports presented to the Board of Directors on October 22.

As a not-for-profit public health organization, Lee Memorial Health System relies heavily on community support and is fortunate to have thousands of compassionate volunteers and auxilians who are dedicated to furthering the mission of the health system and its commitment to provide the highest quality of care to the people of Southwest Florida.

Our volunteers and auxilians are dedicated to improving the quality of care we provide by adding that personal touch and engaging in activities that help meet the needs of our community," said Jill Palmer, Director of Volunteer Resources and Auxiliary Development for Lee Memorial Hospital, HealthPark Medical Center and Golisano Children's Hospital of Southwest Florida. "Their selfless giving plays a huge role in our success. Volunteer efforts touch the community in countless ways and their generosity affects so many lives each and every day."

Auxiliary services began with the efforts of 30 women in 1950, serving Lee Memorial Hospital – the only Lee Memorial Health System facility established at the time. The first year of auxiliary donations totaled $1,232. There are now three auxiliaries serving six hospitals and numerous outpatient facilities. The number of volunteers has grown to over 4,000 men and women and total donations have surpassed $14,000,000.

Annual donations are raised through a variety of fundraising endeavors including the sale of hot popcorn in each hospital lobby, gift and uniform shops and special events. Each auxiliary also donates money for educational grants, which have totaled more than $150,000 annually, to help hundreds of students pursue degrees in various health care professions.

Popcorn maker Carol at Gulf Coast Medical Center

The personal touch they provide to the health system is truly immeasurable in dollars. Volunteers enhance the health system's quality of care by giving services a personal touch and providing extra comforts. There are several different types of volunteer opportunities available at all facilities including trolley/golf cart service, reception, clerical support, gift shop, or simply spending time with patients and their families to make their stay more comfortable.

Volunteer work is a gift to the community. Auxiliary Presidents are volunteers elected by each respective membership and those for 2015 were Mary Ann George, Cape Coral Hospital Auxiliary; Sue Twining, Gulf Coast Medical Center Auxiliary; and Phil Fortin, Lee Memorial Auxiliary serving Lee Memorial Hospital, HealthPark Medical Center and Golisano Children's Hospital.

Methylation And Your Telomeres

by Suzy Cohen, RPh

ear Readers: Do you ever wonder why some people are blessed with long lives compared to others? Without going into numerous philosophical, sociological and spiritual questions, there is a very interesting part of your body that provides insight into longevity. It's called a telomere. Research suggests these telomeres which cap the end of our DNA impact how fast we age.

Think of telomeres like the plastic tip on the end of shoe strings. And think of the shoes strings as strands of DNA with all your chromosomes. Each time your cell divides, a little bit of the telomere cap is lost. Over time, your telomere shortens. It's supposed to; that is completely normal. Your cells divide a fixed number of times before dying. If your telomeres are healthy and long to begin with, the strand of chromosomes is protected through each cell division. Once cell division has maxed out its number of times to divide, and the telomere length runs out, then cell health breaks down and problems occur. This is known as the Hayflick Phenomenon, which refers to the number of times a cell divides until it dies. It correlates with lifespan, and telomeres play an important role.

Researchers have been studying these telomeres for some time and they have known that critically short telomeres cause chromosome instability. Recent research sheds additional insight. Long damaged and dysfunctional telomeres also cause chromosome instability that eventually leads to cell death. If you have a sick cell that really needs to go, I'm not for repairing the telomere with supplements.

The fascinating practical piece of information for you and I is how scientists just discovered that critical nutrients are needed for healthy telomeres. In cell studies, researchers found dysfunctional short and long telomeres more frequently in cells with insufficient folate and thus, reduced methylation. In this particular study, the lack of folate damaged the telomere cap; they were frayed and "beat up" leaving an open door to the chromosomal material. Now remember, without healthy telomeres, your DNA gets damaged. Before leaving folate, and moving on to B12, I want to make one more comment. Folate is the natural form of the B vitamin you think of when you hear "folic acid." But folate and "folic acid" are not exactly the same. The folate form is critical for methylation.

Human studies have confirmed that vitamin B12 is also required for healthy telomeres. A recent study published in the European Journal of Nutrition studied telomeres from 60 elderly people. They compared supplement intake with vitamin B6, B12, folate, calcium and vitamin D versus just vitamin D and calcium. Then they measured homocysteine levels. After a year, they found that individuals who had elevated homocysteine and reduced B vitamin intake, had reduced methylation and shorter telomeres. This group was literally aging

There are very expensive supplements designed to support telomere health, but I suggest two natural B vitamins to improve detoxification. You can get them from eating a salad every day!

Ellis Enlightens Students In Yoga Healing Practices

¶he Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center (SBDAC) adds Hatha Yoga to its Eclectic Education programming to promote artistic and spiritual health and wellness. Through yoga practice, Carol Ellis inspires a healthier living style, better stress management skills, and a hope for a better future. The Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center is located in the historic downtown River District at 2301 First Street in Fort Myers Ellis has been a professional fitness instructor for over 30 years. She has taught in New York City, worldwide conventions, and at local resorts and clubs. A Florida resident since 2004, she has owned and operated several studios such as Beach Bound, Motivation 2 Move, and Fitness In Nature.

Hatha Yoga harmonizes the opposing forces in the body, the masculine energy (sun) and the feminine energy (moon). It teaches us that gaining control of the body is the key to controlling the mind. The class will introduce breathing exercises, warm up routines, and Asanas ending with a guided meditative Savasana. All levels are welcome.

ealthy eating and proper exercise are essential for a robust life, but another important aspect of healthy living is connecting socially. Social connection actually strengthens our immune system, improves physical health and maintains psychological wellbeing. Connection with others who feel what we feel, understand how we think, and who are able to relate with us on a heart-to-heart, soul-to-soul level is one of life's most important skills and needs.

We need human connections for physical, emotional and spiritual health. Social connection is one of the main traits of folks who live into their 90s and 100s, allowing for a long, full, satisfying, enjoyable and healthy life. Those who feel connected have lower rates of anxiety and depression, because their involvement in a social network provides the giving and receiving of trust and empathy. As you might guess, those who are disconnected reap the opposite results, such as physical and emotional disease and isolation.

Belonging is an irresistible need of all people. We are biologically, cognitively, physically and spiritually wired to love, to be loved, and to belong. When that doesn't occur, we don't function as we ought.

Be courageous and take the initiative! Don't be afraid or wait on somebody else to connect with you. Fear is as old as mankind, so instead be wise, strong and resolute, and take the step to connect. Foster, nurture and build your social connections. It just takes a little courage and a bit of adventure. Eat healthy and exercise, yes, but don't neglect to connect.

When it was revealed that an employee of one company had won $300,000 on a competitor's fantasy football site, there were calls for government investigations.

Last week, a trade group representing the industry announced it was forming the Fantasy Sports Control Agency that will be headed by former acting U.S. Labor Secretary Seth D. Harris.

The group said its agency would operate independently and establish auditing procedures to enforce industry standards.

The two biggest fantasy firms, DraftKings and FanDuel already have prohibited their employees from playing on any site.

Did The Hex Of The Cover Story Doom The Mets In The World Series?

by Ed Frank

aybe it was the cover story in last week's Sports Illustrated titled "The Amazin' Murph."

Maybe it was the ill-fated decision of Mets Manager Terry Collins to allow his starting pitcher, Matt Harvey, who had thrown a shutout in the first eight innings of Game Five, to return to the mound in the ninth inning.

Maybe it was the error-plagued infield of the Mets.

Maybe, maybe, maybe...

No. The fact is that the Kansas City Royals, the 2015 World Champions, defeated the New York Mets four-games-to-one in an historic World Series by establishing themselves as the greatest comeback team in baseball history.

And remember, this was the 111th World Series.

Seven times in this post-season, the Royals won after trailing by two or more runs, erasing a 1996 record of the New York Yankees who had come back five times.

The Royals outscored their opponents 61-11 from the seventh inning on this postseason. And their stellar defense gave up only three errors in the entire post-season.

Are you beginning to get the picture?

It seems so often that a Sports Illustrated cover story about a team or individual results in immediate failure. That sure was the case with Daniel Murphy, the Mets' sec-

In powering the Mets to the World Series, Murphy had hit home runs in six straight playoff games, seven overall, with a .436 on base percentage and 11 runs scored.

Here is the first paragraph of that cover story:

"As the Mets and Royals clash in the Fall Classic, all eyes are on a previously anonymous second baseman who's on one of the great power binges in October history. Can Daniel Murphy possibly keep hitting home runs? The answer will go a long way toward deciding which franchise ends its title draught."

The answer, of course, he could not.

Murphy hit an anemic .150 in the World Series without a homerun and committed two costly errors, the first that led to the Royals Game Four comeback victory. So chalk it up to another Sports Illustrated superstition.

The demise of the Mets in the World Series shouldn't be blamed on Murphy alone. New York simply didn't hit like they did when they swept the Chicago Cubs in the National League Championship Series.

Sure we'll remember Murphy's Buckner-like error and Collins' decision-changing move to allow the tiring Harvey to go back in the ninth inning when the team blew a 2-0 lead and ultimately fell 7-2 in the 12th inning of that deciding game.

The simple fact is, however, Kansas City was the better team in winning their first World Series in 30 years.

Fantasy Sports Aims To Self-Regulate

Last week, we wrote about the booming Internet sports fantasy business and the growing concern over its lack of regulation.

Animal Services Adoption Promotion

ee County Domestic Animal Services is giving adopters a special chance to give a home to a shelter pet throughout November. Adopters may take home a new dog or puppy for just $50 or a new cat or kitten for just $20 during the agency's Pet'acular Thanksgiving adoption promotion. Additionally, on Black Saturday, November 28, all black and predominantly black pets may be adopted for the special fee of $5 for cats and $30 for dogs. When it comes to felines, get twice the love as cats and kittens are always two-for-one adoption fee.

Many families plan to bring home a new pet sometime during the holidays so now is a great time to adopt before the typical December rush. All adoptions still include spay or neuter surgery, age-appropriate vaccinations, microchip ID, and many other veterinary services valued at over $500. The discounts are 60 percent or more off the regular adoption fees.

During the Pet'acular Thanksgiving and Black Saturday promotions potential adopters may visit Animal Services shelter located off Six Mile Cypress Parkway, next to the Sheriff's Office, to meet their new companions. Adoption hours are 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, excluding holidays. For more information, call 533-7387 (LEE-PETS) or visit www.LeeLostPets.com. Adoption applications may be submitted online. Also, view a current list of pets for adoption and lost pets online. The website updates hourly.☆

Shore Fishing:

Don't Harm The Fish

by Capt. Matt Mitchell

anding a big fish from the beach can be hard on the fish. Dragging a fish up onto the sand if you're going to release it is not an option as it usually damages or kills the fish.

- Hold the fish in the water while you unhook it if you're going to release
- The less you can touch a fish before release the better for the fish.
- If you want a picture with the fish, support it as you lift it out of the water - and do it quickly.

- Before releasing, revive the fish while holding it in the water; moving it slowly back and forth so water goes over its gills. The fish will let you know when it's ready to swim off.
- Florida just recently changed the regulations on fishing from shore. Florida residents as well as out of state visitors need a fishing license to fish from shore.

Pets Of The Week

ello, my name is Hamlin. I'm a 4-year-old neutered male Jack Russell Terrier mix. I'm a little bit timid, but I'm a true lover boy. I am uncharacteristically quiet for my breed and will be happy to stay right by your side or in your lap doing whatever you love to do. Just give me a belly rub and I'll be your friend forever.

My adoption fee is $50 (regularly $75) during Animal Services' Pet'acular Thanksgiving adoption promotion.

Hello, my name is Goblin. I'm a 2-monthold female black and white domestic short hair. My name may be Goblin, but I'm not the least bit spooky. I'm actually quite sweet and adorable. I'd fit in great in your multi-cat household, since I'm used to playing with other kittens. You can take two of us home, since kitties are two-for-one adoption fee.

since kitties are two-for-one adoption fee.

My adoption fee is $20 (regularly $75)

The shelter is open for adoptions from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The shelter is located at 5600 Banner Drive in Fort Myers, next to the Lee County Sheriff's Office off Six Mile Cypress Parkway.
