Historic Downtown Fort Myers, Then And Now:

Fill 'Er Up On Main Street

by Gerri Reaves, PhD

Then this 1943 photograph was taken, there was no shortage of gas stations in the main business district. The only problem getting the tank filled during the gas-rationing World War II days might have been possessing the necessary ration coupons.

According to the late Dick Jungferman, his father, Vern, bought the Royal Palm Service Station a year or two before

Before that, he had run another Standard Oil station in town, one on McGregor Boulevard at Carson Street.

Note the Standard Oil sign and the "Crown" sign atop the gas pump. Red Crown, Gold Crown and Crown Extra were wellknown gasolines sold by the oil giant.

In those days – and even into the 1960s – a tank fill-up included standard free services, such as a tire-pressure or oil-level check, or a windshield wash.

The men's outfits recall the days when service stations were aptly named. Before "self-service" became the norm, attendants dressed in overalls and snappy caps provided drive-up service.

With two military training bases nearby during WWII - Buckingham Army Air Force Base and Page Field - it's not surprising that much of the station's business was from enlisted men.

In fact, Bob Wallace Motors, a Dodge and Plymouth dealership next door, also functioned as a bus station for the military bases. Wartime bus service catered to soldiers with downtown and beach routes to and from the bases.

Many soldiers were customers of the bicycle-rental at the service station, a concession owned by Coley Westbrook.

Jungferman ran the service station until 1946, after which he sold it and started a tire service.

In 1956 First Federal Savings and Loan moved into a new building on Royal Palm Service Station's site. After the S&L moved in 1978 to its new "silo" building (today's Lee County Administration Annex East), the land eventually became a city-owned parking lot.

Although gas stations no longer exist in the main business district, the background of the historic photo shows that not everything changes or disappears.

Walk down to Main and Broadway and imagine driving up and being greeted by someone who asks "fill 'er up? Check your oil?

Then, visit two local research centers to learn more about the many downtown gas stations that served motorists for much of the 20th century.

Theater Comedy Has More Than Wisecracks

by Tom Hall

The Savannah Sipping Society opened last Friday night at the Broadway Palm Dinner Theatre. It is a raucous comedy that follows the exploits of four downtrodden unattached Southern women trying to recapture their swag and reclaim their lives.

Randa Covington, Marlafaye Mosley and Dot Haigler stagger into the juice bar after nearly expiring in a hot yoga class. Forming an instant bond as a result of this near-death experience, they resolve to share drinks that evening on Randa's verandah.
Dot invites the manager of a nearby make-up store to join the trio. As luck would have it, Jinx Jenkins has already met Randa – in the checkout line at the local grocery.

"I got a slab of Brie and seven tangerines," she tells Dot and Marlafaye before encountering Randa for the second time that day. "When I got into the five-items-or-less line, the most pretentious, uptight gal I've met in years threw a frothing fit. She went ballistic. I mean, what kind of person is so tightly wound she'd even care about that?"

Enter Randa, holding aloft a plate of cheese straws. Never underestimate the healing power of a cheese straw! The two unite at first bite and, over the course of the next two hours, this foursome buffets the audience with a barrage of jokes, one-liners and zingers worthy of a Samantha Bee or Paula Poundstone stand-up comedy routine. The banter is droll, the repartee snappy, and though there is a proliferation of man-bashing jokes and gender-based sarcasm, the men in the audience during the play's Wednesday night preview frequently drowned out the laughter of their female counterparts.

But there's more here than a disjointed string of wisecracks and witticisms. Playwrights Jessie Jones, Nicholas Hope and Jamie Wooten, (whose credits include The Dixie Swim Club, Dearly Beloved, Christmas Belles, The Red Velvet Cake War and Always A Bridesmaid) explore the ways in which all of us cope with the reverses, setbacks and tragedies that life throws our way with all too much regularity. Like us, Randa, Marlafaye, Dot and Jinx are self-involved, filled with irrational fears and desires, and consumed by conflicting emotions. On their own, they struggle to get by, but with each other's support and understanding, they find the courage to try and do new things that make them individually and collectively smarter, stronger, more confident and self-aware.

All four of the actresses chosen by director Paul Bernier for this show deliver impressive performances. By virtue of their on-stage chemistry and the way the cast complements each other, the characters in this production come across as real, three-dimensional people rather than cardboard cut-outs of The Golden Girls or Designing Women.

Stephanie "Downtown Diva" Davis exudes both vulnerability and edginess as the long-suffering professional who loses it and her job after her boss gives the promotion she deserves to a man half her age and a quarter as talented. If you liked her as Miss Witherspoon, you'll adore Davis as Randa Covington.

Kelly Legaretta plays Texas divorcee Marlafaye Mosley. She not only enjoys the distinction of having the driest humor and most one-liners, she has the best stocked purse to grace a stage since David Kane's briefcase in One Day At A Time.

As the recently widowed Dot Haigler, Donna Schulte is not only sweetly endearing, she is adept at mining every ounce of comedy possible from the lines and stage directions she's given.

The driving force in this show, however, is ML Graham, who plays Jinx Jenkins. She's not only funny, theatrical and refreshing. She's sensitive to the growth arc her character traverses, which justifies the monologue she delivers near the end of the play.

Kudos must also be given to P&P Design for creating a set as bright and sunny as the overall tone of the show. Jim Conti also warrants a shout-out for the Medieval Fair costumes he fashioned for Marlafaye, Dot and Jinx to wear in act two.

The bottom line here is that if you find yourself in need of a good laugh, you need look no farther than Off-Broadway Palm's The Savannah Sipping Society. The show is selling out fast, so make reservations immediately.

Tom Hall is both an amateur artist and aspiring novelist who writes art quest thrillers. He is in the final stages of completing his debut novel titled Art Detective. A former tax attorney, he lives in Estero with his fiancé and their four cats.

Shell Club Needs Shells

Tisitors who attend the Sanibel Shell Show love the little bags of shells that they receive when they enter the show. They are a "thank you for your donation" gift from the Sanibel-Captiva Shell Club. These gift bags are 4" by 4' and are typically filled with about six or eight appropriately sized shells

The club always needs shells to fill these bags. You might consider donating some of your shells to the SanCap Shell Club. Donated shells should not be larger than a full-grown Florida fighting conch. Ideally, each bag will be filled with shells around the size of an adult apple murex and might include banded tulips, olives, calico clams, moon snails, nutmegs, or others of that size. The shells do not have to be from the local area. Any shells of the right size make the bagging process go smoothly and quickly. The shells should be cleaned, with barnacles removed and the sand shaken out, since the club does not have a way to clean them at the "bagging parties."

Very small shells, such as kitten paws and coquinas, get lost in the bags, but will be accepted since they can be used as craft shells.

Do not leave shells you are donating to the club at the Bailey-Matthews National Shell Museum. Contact Linda Edinburg at 395-9426 or Irene Longley at 283-7417 to arrange for either pick-up or delivery of your shell donation.☆

Sunscreen, drinks, snacks, and beach bags are encouraged. There is a restroom available on the cruise. There are no facilities on the state park islands. Dutch treat lunch at Cabbage Key.

Cost is $72 per member and $77 per non-member. Pre-registration is required by Thursday, February 2.

Lake Kennedy Senior Center is located at 400 Santa Barbara Boulevard in Cape Coral. For more information, call 574-0575.☼

Questioning Beethoven At Theatre Conspiracy

Jim Yarnes and Scott Carpenter

by Di Saggau

have enjoyed numerous plays over the years at Theatre Conspiracy and their current production is one of their best. It is a deeply moving production. 33 Variations by Moises Kaufman examines the creative process behind Beethoven's Diabelli Variations and musicologist Katherine Brandt's journey to discover why Beethoven was compelled to write 33 distinct variations on a simple waltz by a minor music publisher.

The cast is perfect with Lauren Drexler as Katherine, Jim Yarnes as Beethoven, Julia Rivera as Clara Brandt, David Coretti as Anton Diabelli, Joann Haley as Dr. Gertrude Ladenberger, the archive librarian who assists Brandt in Bonn, PJ McCready as Mike Clark who is Katherine's nurse, Scott Carpenter as Anton Schindler, Beethoven's semitrusted associate and - so very important - Heidi Thompson as the pianist who plays excerpts of the variations throughout the play.

Joann Haley and Lauren Drexler

Katherine is in the early stages of Lou Gehrig's disease. She poses a question in the first scene: Why did a genius like Beethoven devote himself in his precious later years to writing variations on a mediocre waltz composed by his publisher Anton Diabelli? Beethoven spent three years writing 33 different variations, and it is such a treat to hear them and follow the story line. The play is about passion, parenthood and the moments of beauty that can transform a life. Several themes concern the nature of art and obsession and their intimate connection to sickness and dying.

The play moves swiftly back and forth through time and space, often several time periods are on stage together. Scenes take place in New York, Bonn, Germany and Vienna, Austria in 1819, 1823 and the present. Its works splendidly. Screens on either side of the stage portray various scenery including copies of Beethoven's manuscripts. Katherine's troubled relationship with her daughter Clara is largely due to her disdain of mediocrity. But does she really understand her daughter? There are many humorous moments between Mike, and Clara. Beethoven and Schindler also have several amusing scenes. Yarnes truly brings Beethoven to life and Drexler is outstanding as Katherine.

Each character makes this extraordinary play waltz elegantly between past and present, fact and speculation, art and life. As to why Beethoven wrote 33 variations? You'll have to see the play and I strongly recommend that you do.

Directed by Rachael Endrizzi, the play is heartbreakingly real. 33 Variations plays through February 4 at Theatre Conspiracy, located in the Alliance For the Arts, 10091 McGregor Boulevard in Fort Myers. For tickets or more information, call 936-3239.

CROW Case Of The Week:

White Pelican

by Bob Petcher

he white pelican (Pelecanus erythrorhynchos) is considered one of the heaviest flying birds in the world. This water bird's soaring technique is celebrated with wing beats that are measured, methodical, slow and smooth.

Adult white pelicans are snowy white and mainly have black wing tips compared to its cousin, the more common brown pelican, which has a darker plumage. Other differences between cousins include style of foraging. While the brown pelican plunge-dives into the water, the white pelican feeds from the water's surface, sitting back and dipping its beak in to catch fish and other prey. White pelicans also have larger heads and thicker bodies, yet both species of pelicans have huge bills that can give each a prehistoric appearance.

At CROW, a white pelican arrived on January 11 after it was found in the mangroves at JN "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge. It reportedly was unable to swim. CROW officials stated the pelican arrived weak and was unable to keep its head up with evidence of neurological issues most likely a result of red tide toxicosis. "The patient remained highly stressed, needed to be force-fed and had multiple episodes of diarrhea, the report said. For the next couple of days, the pelican had a condition called "paresis" and was unable to stand or eat on its own. By the third day, the pelican was attempting to stand but was still too weak. But by day four, the pelican was able to stand on its own and was starting to eat small amounts of food without assistance.

It is not very often that CROW medical staff gets to treat a white pelican.

They are very rare patients for CROW," said Dr. Spencer Kehoe, CROW DVM intern. "We have only had two in the last couple of years. In 2016, CROW had one American white pelican that died within a 24-hour period. The pelican was from Pine Island Sound and arrived with a hook-in-the-throat injury.

Last week, the latest white pelican patient was seen hock-sitting and taking short walks, but it had problems walking longer distances. The pelican was able to hold its head up for a longer period of time and was attempting to bite anyone that neared the bird; the latter viewed as a positive sign of its increasing better health.

Initial reports stated the pelican may have also suffered an eye ulcer. To treat medically, orange fluorescein stain is placed in the eye to locate corneal injuries that appear under blue light, said Dr. Kehoe. "They are checked frequently with the stain to see how quickly they are clearing up until they are completely gone.

As of January 22, Dr. Kehoe relayed

Patient #17-69 mingles with a brown pelican during outdoor time

that the pinpoint corneal ulcers had cleared. "The ulcers were treated with Neo Poly Gram eye drops," he said. "These drops are also used to treat domestic animals that have bacterial eye infections. A day later, CROW officials reported the patient was expected to be moved outside to a flight enclosure to work on its flying skills. Reports say its release is on the near horizon.

The pelican is doing extremely well and is expected to be released this week," said Dr. Kehoe on Monday. "It's bright, alert and eating well and will be moved outside to the pool enclosure today. It will need a few days to build up its strength before it can be released back at 'Ding' Darling.

Tough Conditions Call For Live Shrimp

by Capt. Matt Mitchell

't was another great week to be on the water, with warm balmy conditions and light winds. As we move into the end of January, so far it's been one of the milder winters in recent years. Strong winds did crash the perfect boating weather by the end of the weekend and kept anglers in for a couple of days.

Despite the lousy lack of any daytime tide movement this week, I still found consistent action on a wide variety of species. Trout became the daily go-to species, and once you located them, it was non-stop action with more and more keeper size (15-inch minimum) in the mix. Some days, these trout would be on the flats in 2 to 3 feet; then other days in 4 to 5 feet of water. Once you worked out the pattern, it was easy money. Live shrimp on a popping cork was the bait of choice.

When things get tough, go shrimp fishing. This includes cold, wind or no tide, shrimp will get bites when no other bait will. This proved very true this week as shrimp fishing on popping corks was the best action going. The popping cork rig we traditionally used to catch trout has really evolved over the past years. What used to be just a concave top float rigged with a piece of leader and split shots has become a whole lot more user friendly. This old school trout rig consistently tangled up. The newer Cajun Thunder style sliding popping cork rigs with rattles and BB's make plenty of noise and are almost tangle

My choice of popping cork rig the past few years is the B-52, a hard plastic egg-shaped float with BB's inside it that rattle even with the slightest wave motion. When popped, it makes lots of noise and seems to work better than any other one I have used to date. The float slides up and down on a piece of no flex metal with weights and beads, then swivels at both ends, making it easy to rig and hard to tangle even when being cast by novice anglers. To the B-52 sliding float, tie about 30 inches of 20#

fluorocarbon leader and a 1/4 ounce jig head on a loop knot. When popped, the jig head allows the shrimp to come up towards the surface and then sink, which drives trout crazy.

Shiner fishing was a little tougher this week with the noticeable lack of water movement. We did manage some catch-and-release snook action back in most narrow mangrove creeks that had even the slightest water movement. Most of these snook were on the small size but made a great change of pace for my anglers after catching lots of trout.

On one trip this week, I headed to a way back hidden mangrove creek that sees very little boat pressure due to that fact it's hard to access even if you know where it is. I don't fish this creek very often as it involves a long idle over really shallow water. Even with zero tide movement, we sat in here for almost two hours catching a great variety of species all on live shiners. What these fish lacked in size they made up for in sheer numbers with snook, trout, mangrove snapper and jacks taking basically every free lined shiner we cast. Rarely seen live shiners this far back in the mangrove forrest must have been just too much of a temptation for these laid up creek fish.

Capt. Matt Mitchell has been fishing local waters since he moved to Sanibel in 1980. He now lives in St. James City and works as a back country fishing guide. If you have comments or questions, email captmattmitchell@aol.

Cabbage Palm Fern

abbage palm fern (Phlebodium aureum) is one of the most common of native ferns. A member of the polypody family, it has a hardy spare look in opposition to some ferns with a frilly, lacey or delicate appearance.

It grows wild throughout most of Florida, typically in swamps and hammocks, and is a familiar volunteer in the yard. Typically, it's found in the "boots," or frond bases, of the cabbage palm, the state tree, thus the common

Like many ferns, orchids and bromeliads, it is an epiphyte (air plant) using plants - such as live oaks, palms and saw palmettos - as growing platforms from which to gather nutrients in water and debris. It is not a

Non-Profit Group Offering Help For Soldiers

Last week, a donation from Shatter Shield Security was made to Songs and Stories for Soldiers, a non-profit group based on Sanibel. new, island-based organization is taking care of American soldiers by offering them free MP3 players - loaded with music, audio books and therapeutic music to induce restful sleep - in an effort to, in the words of the group's founder, "get our soldiers safely through the night."

Focused on helping wounded soldiers or those affected by depression, anxiety, PTSD (Post Traumatic Stress Disorder) or TBI (Traumatic Brain Injury), Songs and Stories for Soldiers is a 501(c)3 non-profit corporation dedicated to providing free, customizable electronic entertainment for members of the American Military, both active and retired.

'We are providing MP3 players, with headsets and USB connection cable or the most recent technology, free to American military," said Dan Perkins, founders and trustee of the group. "We will start with active duty wounded, and as their needs are met, we will branch out to veterans and VA hospitals across the United States.'

According to Perkins, the idea behind Songs and Stories for Soldiers came to him as he was driving to Miami Beach for a speaking engagement. The author, financial advisor and radio show host experienced a medical emergency while he was driving along Alligator Alley. Sudenly, he had an epiphany to create the military-based help group

'We have distributed in excess of 10,000 MP3 players since we started in January 2015," said Perkins, who also noted that the organization is currently serving soldiers in 53 facilities across the United States. "Our singular mission is to get our soldiers safely through until dawn. For many soldiers who experience PTSD, night time is the most terrifying time for them. That anxiety can lead to sleep deprivation, and when the body can't get deep, restful sleep, bad things can happen.'

Researchers from the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio have stated that sleep disturbance is one of the most common issues individuals with PTSD face. Specifically, insomnia and nightmares plague the vast majority of those struggling with the disorder. Although it is assumed to be high, relatively little is known about the actual prevalence of sleep disturbances in veterans with PTSD.

Not surprisingly, insomnia was the most frequently reported PTSD symptom prior to treatment. A whopping 92 percent acknowledged some degree of difficulty falling or staying asleep. Although not as high as insomnia, 69 percent of the same group reported suffering from nightmares.

Perkins explained that another disturbing trend not reported in the media is that the suicide rate among female military veterans is 12 times the national average, and male military vets are committing suicide at nearly four times the national average.

In addition to more than eight million songs, 100,000 audio books and 30,000 old time radio programs, the MP3 players come loaded with eight hours of music intended to induce REM-level sleep.

The response to Songs and Stories for Soldiers has been overwhelmingly positive. "The veterans are really enjoying them; the volunteers are downloading individual programming for each veteran," wrote Kevin Knappins, program ministry director continued on page 21

Help For Soldiers

from The Salvation Army in Sandusky, Ohio. "We presented the MP3 players on Veterans Day – we were able to show God's love and see it reflected in the eyes of those we serve. It has been a blessing all around."

Anne M. Murray, voluntary services manager at the VA Central Western Massachusetts Healthcare System, added praise in her letter to the organization.

"We currently have two in-patient units that are loaded with young men and women who served in these latest wars. Many of them have PTSD and/or TBI and suffer from issues of getting a good night's sleep," she wrote. "You are spot-on with your gift! I wish I knew how to put into words how much gratitude we have for having you include our patients in your very generous project. A thousand thank you's doesn't seem like it covers it. Your support is so very much appreciated."

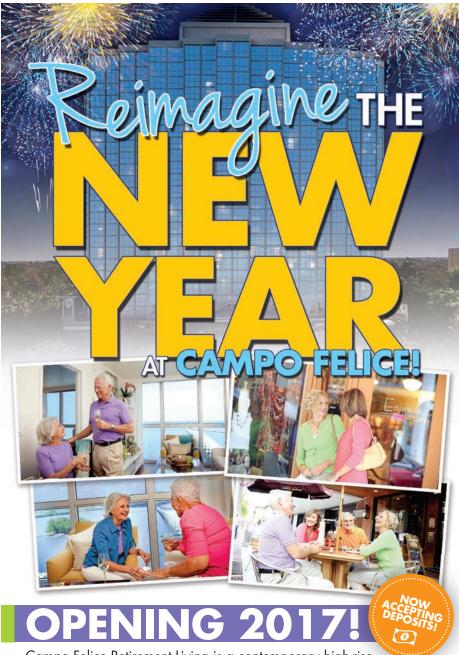

Not only has Songs and Stories for Soldiers caught on quickly amongst hospitals, homeless shelters, VA and rehabilitation facilities across the country – including the Walter Reed National Military Medical Center in Maryland and the Brooke Army Medical Center in Texas – but it is supported by the National American Legion and The Salvation Army. Locally, the group is represented at the VA Clinic in Cape Coral and supported by the Lee Coast Chapter of the Military Officers Association of America (MOAA) and other island non-profit organizations.

"It's amazing how generous the residents of Southwest Florida are," added Perkins. "People here are so dedicated to giving back."

Last week, John Londergan, owner of Shatter Shield Security in Bonita Springs, visited Dan and Gerri Perkins' home to deliver a donation to Songs and Stories for Soldiers.

"We're a new company, but wherever I've lived, I've had a favorite charity to support," said Londergan. "I was so impressed by Dan and his story about what he's doing that I wanted to support this cause. # Falcons Can Join Cubs And Cavs With Their First Super Bowl Victory

by Ed Frank

re we living in an era when historic team title droughts are vanishing? The Chicago Cubs won their first World Series title in 108 years last November. The Cleveland Cavaliers ended their city's 52-year championship drought by winning the NBA title last June.

And February 5, the Atlanta Falcons, who have never won a Super Bowl in their 51-year history, have the opportunity to erase that blank when they face the New England Patriots in Super Bowl LI in Houston.

In their lone Super Bowl appearance 1999, the Falcons were crushed by the Denver Broncos 34-19 in John Elway's final game.

The City of Atlanta's last championship was in 1995 when the Braves won the World Series, but the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA along with the Falcons have never won the "big ones."

For the New England Patriots, however, the Super Bowl is "old school" as they will compete in an NFL-record ninth time. The Patriots have four Super Bowl titles. New England was installed as a three-point favorite in early betting.

In professional sports' biggest show next Sunday, the game's outcome no doubt will rest on the talented arms of Patriots quarterback Tom Brady and Falcons quarterback Matt Ryan, who set a franchise record passing with 4,994 yards and 38 touchdowns.

For Brady, returning to the Super Bowl will be sweet revenge after being suspended for the first four games of the season for his role in allegedly using under-inflated footballs during the AFC title game against Indianapolis two years

That suspension was levied by NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell, a penalty bitterly criticized by Brady and the Patriots organization. Just imagine the scene if Goodell has to award the Super Bowl trophy to the Patriots.

The commissioner didn't attend last Sunday's AFC championship game when the Patriots defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers to advance to Super Bowl LI, opting instead to watch the Falcons pummel the Green Bay Packers in the NFC title clash.

As always, there will be hundreds of sidebar tales written about next Sunday's Patriots-Falcons title game, but foremost from this reporter's interest is whether the Falcons will join the Cubs and the Cavaliers in extinguishing their 51-year championship drought.

Community Walk Strides to Unify

walk that has a purpose to bridge the gap between the local police department and the community will be held Saturday, February 4 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Blue and Green Goes Blue and Black Walk is an event sponsored by Florida Gulf Coast University's National Black Law Student Association with help from other FGCU registered student organizations to make it an inclusive event for the entire community. The mission for the walk is to unify Lee County's police departments and the Lee County community.

The walk will begin at Fort Myers

Police Department, 2210 Widman Way, in Fort Myers and end at Lee County Black History Society, 1936 Henderson Avenue, Fort Myers. A reception with food and drinks will follow at the society.

Participants are asked to wear the colors black and blue: the color black, to symbolize our black community; and the color blue to symbolize the police force. Many recent tragedies within educational systems and communities have divided us. The goal is to help the community see that people can come together and be peaceful. Having the Fort Myers Police Department and Lee County Sheriff's Office as a partner will strengthen and help achieve the mission of the walk. For additional information, contact

Bar Association Names Executive Council Officers

t a membership luncheon at the Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center on Friday, January 20, the Lee County Bar Association (LCBA) officially inducted its slate of 2017 officers, including its president, Kelly L. Fayer. She is joined in leading the 69-year-old organization by Daniel Endrizal as vice president, John Webb as secretary and Matthew Roepstorff as

Board members include Public Defender Kathleen Smith, Spencer Cordell, Scot Goldberg and Blake Hampton. Kayla Richmond is president of the LCBA's Young Lawyers Division (YLD). Scott Atwood is president

Since joining the LCBA's Executive Council in 2013, Fayer's primary goal has been the establishment of LCBA Cares. This enduring initiative was officially launched in 2015, representing aspirations for enhanced benefits to member attorneys and judges and the greater community that they serve. LCBA Cares acknowledges members' primary motivation in joining the legal profession in the first place: to help others

LCBA Cares is a worthwhile endeavor that will prove to be a lasting benefit to the community and the legal profession," said Fayer. "It's longranging and multi-faceted in scope, but simply honors our members' position as helpers and empowers them to do even more."

The Lee County Bar Association Foundation was established last year to fully realize the organization's fundraising and philanthropic objectives. This year, the foundation will be able to start providing grants for worthwhile community causes. Attorney Beverly Grady is president of the foundation.

Continuing support will be provided to the Lee County Legal Aid Society, which the LCBA founded 50 years ago to provide free legal assistance to low-income Lee County residents. A partnership with Florida Rural Legal Services continues to promote pro bono work by LCBA member attorneys. Now, that non-profit organization will underwrite $100 of membership dues for any LCBA member who accepts a pro bono case through April 1. Legal services outreach activities such as Law In The Mall, which provides free legal advice to citizens at Edison Mall in May, and the Veterans and First Responders Legal Clinic will continue.

The YLD will also continue its focus on children's issues with Holidays In July, which provides a holiday experience for children in foster care, and fundraising for the Guardian ad Litem Foundation. The TRY-athlon returns to introduce exciting new activities to kids through the Children's Network of Southwest Florida.

Fayer also announced a new Bench-Bar Exchange, offering lawyers focusing in a particular practice area a direct line to their judges. In addition to presenting educational and networking opportunities to their members, LCBA Practice Sections chairs will meet quarterly with their respective administrative judge to assure all members' concerns about advocating for their clients in the justice system are addressed.

Now is the time for members to renew their membership online at www. leebar.org/renew. New members may visit www.leebar.org or call 334-0047 for information. Citizens in need of an attorney are invited to take advantage of the LCBA's Lawyer Referral Service at www.leebar.org.

Tax Credit Project Approved

he Southwest Florida Community Foundation recently closed on a $10 million New Markets Tax Credit deal to be used to restore the historic Atlantic Coast Line railroad station and build a technology hub and headquarters in the midtown historic neighborhood of Fort Myers.

The New Markets Tax Credit, or NMTC, program encourages economic development in distressed neighborhoods.

As part of the public-private partnership with the City of Fort Myers, the Southwest Florida Community Foundation will sign a long-term lease with the city to move its regional headquarters to the train depot on Jackson Street. The building will be restored, and the Foundation plans to construct a 10,000-squarefoot LEED Gold addition to create a campus that includes the Foundation offices and state-of-the-art shared space for the community and tenants.

Florida Community Loan Fund provided the $10 million in the NMTC allocation, and U.S. Bancorp Community Development Corporation is an investor on the project. Whitney Hancock Bank provided additional financing.

According to Sarah Owen, president and CEO of the Southwest Florida Community Foundation, the innovative thinking around community investments that created this opportunity will result in a gathering place for philanthropy and nonprofits in the heart of midtown Fort Myers, featuring vibrant spaces for work, gatherings and special events. In addition, plans include state-of-the-art broadband access.

We are extremely excited about this project, public/private partnership with the city and the possibilities this brings for the midtown neighborhood," said Owen. "We like to call this a 'collaboration accelerator' that is powered by technology, funding and good ideas to create change in our region. It's old historic rail meeting new innovative rail."

The center, along with the Internet network, will be a resource for regional nonprofit organizations, local businesses and schools.

This is a fantastic project because it gives U.S. Bank the opportunity to support the restoration of an important historical building, spark new economic development in a growing region and partner with a visionary non-profit," said

New Designs Available at

Forever Green Ace Hardware

Jennifer Westerbeck, vice president of U.S. Bancorp Community Development Corporation, a division of U.S. Bank.

The city's midtown redevelopment plan covers the areas south of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard, north of Edison Avenue, east of U.S. 41 and west of Fowler Street. Part of this plan also includes 15 blocks of upgraded utilities and $2.5 million of streetscaping.

The foundation is supporting the financing by paying closing costs and interest payments for the next seven years. The New Markets Tax Credit provided $3 million of equity-like financing to the $10 million project, which after seven years will be available to be converted to true equity.

The Atlantic Coast Line railway station at 2031 Jackson Street was presented to the city on Feb. 4, 1924, the same year Fort Myers was poised to join the Florida real estate boom of the 1920s. In the face of shrinking revenues, the Seaboard Coast Line (which had merged with ACL) sold its track and discontinued all passenger service into Fort Myers and closed the station in 1971. After sitting empty for a decade, the Southwest Florida Museum of History opened on the site in 1982. In 2015, the museum merged with the Imaginarium Science Center and recently moved to the Imaginarium's site at Cranford Avenue.

This project is a win-win for our region because it is a pivotal example of unique strategies and investment coming together for repurposing and revitalization of our historic treasures and neighborhoods," added Owen. "Upon completion, this once vital Fort Myers' asset will once again be a central hub for community activity and progress.

Work on the site is anticipated to begin in February, exactly 93 years after the original presentation to the city.

When Do You Need A Financial Advisor

by Jennifer Basey

re you a "do-ityourselfer?" If you can take care of home repairs, lawn work and other types of maintenance by yourself, you'll save money and probably gain satisfaction. But you will almost certainly need some help in other areas of your life - one of which may be investing. In fact, you could benefit from the services of a professional financial advisor at several points in your life:

- When you're starting out in your career - When you land your first career-type" job, you will have some financial decisions to make: Should I participate in my employer's 401(k) or other retirement plan? (Hint: Yes!) If so, how much should I contribute? How can I juggle saving for retirement with paying off student loans? These are the types of questions you can answer with the help of a financial advisor.
- When you're saving for important goals - Whether you're saving for a down payment on your first home, or for your children's college education, or for your own comfortable retirement, you'll face many choices. A financial advisor - someone with experience in helping people work toward these goals - can assist you in making the choices most appropriate for your individual
- When you're experiencing a personal "milestone" - Like everyone, you'll go through many major life events. Some will be joyful, such as marriage and the arrival of children, while others may be unpleasant or

- sad, such as divorce or the death of a loved one. But virtually all these events carry with them some type of financial component – establishing new investment accounts, purchasing sufficient insurance, naming and changing of beneficiaries, and so on. A financial advisor who truly understands you and your needs can help you make appropriate moves for all your milestones.
- When you're close to retirement - As you near retirement, you'll have several issues to consider: About how much income will you need each year? When should you start taking Social Security? How much can you afford to withdraw annually from your IRA and 401(k)? A financial advisor has the tools, training and experience to explore alternatives and suggest suitable moves for you.
- When you're retired Even after you retire, you've got plenty to think about, in terms of financial moves. For one thing, you need to ensure that your investment portfolio provides you with both sufficient income for your desired lifestyle and adequate growth potential to help you stay ahead of inflation. What's the correct balance of investments for your needs? Are there investments that can provide you with rising income without exposing you to undue risk? Once you're retired, you just won't get a lot of "do-overs," so getting the right help is important.

If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you may not get it right each and every time. But you won't pay much of a price (except, perhaps in embarrassment) if that chair you built collapses under a stack of newspapers. However, you also know when it's time to call in a professional – and that's whom you need when it comes to building your financial future. So, get the assistance you need, when you need it, from a financial advisor.

"My oil paintings are representational and figurative, rooted in the real images and forms that we all can encounter every day," said Zell. "They are affected, and hopefully enhanced, by the type of abstraction that will remind us that we live with, and on the edge of, the unreal in our own emotions, memories and beliefs that make each of our lives so fascinating. Personally,

I moved from watercolor to acrylic to oil, working both outdoors and in the studio, finding that oil painting, although laborious and messy, yields images of intense color, striking value contrasts and strange shapes that often strike a chord in the viewer, perhaps reminding the viewer that painting is an individual expression in an ancient artistic medium used for centuries by civilization to record its own movement through time and place."

This exhibit of oil paintings has no high concept theme and, in fact, the exhibit shows diverse subjects: man acting in various places, doing various things, all of which can be a cause for joy and wonder - a concert or a ballgame, in the city or in nature, on the docks or in the Old West.

Care In Home

ee Physician Group Palliative Care recently launched a telemedicine program to serve patients who require complex care coordination. To ease the burden of traveling into the office for follow-up care, certain palliative care visits can now be done through video using the patient's personal phone or tablet. The video visit, facilitated through the Epic electronic health record MyChart application, offers a comprehensive, caring conversation with a doctor in the comfort of a patient's home.

Patients living with one or more chronic medical conditions often find themselves navigating a complex and sometimes confusing health care system. Lifechanging challenges—including multiple doctor visits, treatments, medications, difficult medical decisions, as well as pain or depression—impact physical, emotional, spiritual and financial well-being. Palliative care is a medical specialty focused on assisting patients with complex decisionmaking, coordination of care and symptom management.

'Patients facing life-changing conditions, such as cancer, kidney disease, heart failure and/or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) may suffer from symptoms like pain, shortness of breath, fatigue, loss of appetite, difficulty sleeping and depression," said Colleen Tallen, M.D., Lee Physician Group palliative care specialist. "These symptoms affect their quality of life, and often their ability or desire to travel far from home. The telemedicine visit gives us the opportunity to provide a high level of care that is convenient for our patients.

The telemedicine visits are expected to decrease emergency department and Convenient Care visits because the palliative care physician now can see patients who may have previously canceled an appointment due to an exacerbation of

'În the past, a patient who woke up fatigued or in too much pain to travel may have canceled his or her appointment rather than drive to the office, now we can connect to the patient in the comfort of their own home," Dr. Tallen says.

Palliative care consultations whether in office or via telemedicine offer support, encouragement and an opportunity for patients to feel in control of their health and well-being.

Volunteers are essential. Volunteers increase agencies' and organizations' power to make a difference in our community, and actually extend what agencies can do for their clients. The United Way Volunteer Fair is designed to increase the number of people who get involved in the community, and let those who currently volunteer have an opportunity to meet with agencies to explore other interests. Engaged volunteers are actually happier and healthier.

Volunteering gives people a chance to learn something new, support a cause, meet new friends, prepare for job experience, get school credit and much more. Employers often consider the volunteer experience of their job applicants. LinkedIn says that one in five managers hired an employee based on volunteer experience.

Thinning Out The Cat Herd In Fort Myers Area The Humane Way

Feral cats can be trapped and transported to Gulf Coast Humane Society to be spayed or neutered. GCHS is offering five free spay or neuters a month if you take a free TNR Workshop and be certified. photos courtesy GCHS

Spaying and neutering is the best tool to thin cat colonies humanely

't's a site everyone sees in the greater Fort Myers area and one in which there are mixed feelings towards, but no matter which side one falls on, it's a problem with a

Feral cat colonies have been on the rise over the last decade, due to more cats being released by their owners, which in turn increases litters produced by the

One of the best methods to thin out the feral colonies is called "TNR," or trapneuter-release. Fortunate Ferals, a non-profit organization in Fort Myers dedicated to TNR, is a leader in the method.

To help spread the word about TNR, Fortunate Ferals has partnered with Gulf Coast Humane Society to provide information and education on how to help stray and feral cats in the community.

There will be a free TNR workshop held on Saturday, January 21 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Gulf Coast Humane Society for those looking to get certified in feral cat trapping and transport to the spay/neuter clinic.

It's an opportunity Fortunate Ferals and GCHS hope people take advantage of. "We are hoping to schedule a workshop at least once a month in the different surrounding communities," said Fortunate Ferals organizer Glenda Sparnroft. "Wherever Gulf Coast Humane Society services, we certainly can hold workshops in those communities to get more people certified."

Through these free TNR workshops, TNR participants will be taught the basics of live trapping cats in these colonies, caring for the colonies correctly, how to care for the cat pre and post-surgery, how to return the cat to the colony and how to respond to upset neighbors.

The ultimate goal of TNR is to spay and neuter every cat, because if only one female is left out there, it can produce many litters," Sparnroft said. "The outside elements and natural attrition, and even some getting hit by cars, will diminish the numbers."

For those TNR participants who take advantage of the free classes Fortunate Ferals and GCHS is offering, they will earn a certification to trap cats and how to bring them to the GCHS Spay-Neuter Clinic. GCHS Spay-Neuter Clinic will offer five free spay-neuters a month for ferals to people who get certified through the classes.

This is such a great program to help control the feral population," said GCHS Executive Director Jennifer Galloway. "We are more than happy to partner with Fortunate Ferals to help alleviate the feral cat population through the most humane way possible and that's through TNR."

After each cat is spayed or neutered, they are returned to their colony, basically because they have nowhere else to go. With numbers roughly estimated around 200,000 feral cats in Lee County alone, there are not enough homes to care for

"These cats are also too wild or too feral to be inside, so again, TNR is the best method to use to help the population," Sparnroft said.

$300,000 For Student Scholarships From Schulze Family Foundation

The Schulze Family Foundation recently presented a $300,000 gift to the Florida SouthWestern State College (FSW) Foundation for student scholarships. The funds will be divided equally between the School of Education and the School of Health Professions. Scholarships will be awarded to students in the early childhood education program and the nursing program over the next three

"We are honored to receive this gift on behalf of future teachers and nurses that will serve our community for decades to come," said Dr. Louis Traina, FSW vice president, institutional advancement and executive director, FSW Foundation. "We are proud to partner with the Schulze Family Foundation in their efforts to invest in public service professionals."

FSW will use the scholarship funds to augment federal aid, state grants and other resources students typically receive to pay for their educations, maximizing the number of students who receive scholarship dollars to increase the number of students graduating from FSW debt-free. The School of Education Early Childhood Education program seeks to match public with private dollars to impact as many students as possible," said Dr. Larry Miller, dean, School of Education. "The funds will first support students who have received partial scholarships from state grants, doubling the number of students served. We will then award scholarships to high-performing students currently enrolled in our program, and we will use the scholarship to recruit high-performing high school seniors interested in becoming Early Childhood Educators.

The Nursing RN to BSN program within the School of Health Professions will use the scholarship to fund associate degree nursing graduates who return for the bachelor's degree after passing the NCLEX-RN Examination and earning a Florida Registered Nurse license.

This scholarship will support and motivate students to immediately continue their advanced education in nursing before other life events and financial responsibilities happens," said Dr. Marie Collins, dean, School of Health Professions. "The generous funding from the Schulze Family Foundation, will cover the full tuition costs for over 40 nursing students to complete the 30 credit hour BSN program. We will allocate all scholarship funds to high performing students who are admitted and actively enrolled in the program.

The Richard M. Schulze Family Foundation recognizes the importance and value in helping students achieve their post-secondary dreams, in a cost-effective manner,' said Mary Beth Geier, Florida region coordinator, Schulze Family Foundation. "The scholarships provided through FSW for high-performing students in the fields of Early Childhood Education and Nursing will assist in achieving that goal. We also understand the importance to the community to have highly skilled employees in these valuable and fast-growing job markets. FSW does a wonderful job teaching and training students for the work-force and we are pleased to be able to work in collaboration with them to help students achieve success and make our community a stronger place to live."

Rotary Club First Member Celebrates 97th Birthday

The Rotary Club of Fort Myers wished Paul Herring, its oldest member, a happy 97th birthday on January 23. The milestone is even more impressive considering 2017 is also Herring's 64th year as a member of the club. Proudly wearing badge #1, he still makes it a point to attend every meeting and support the club's community service projects and fundraisers.

Born in Tifton, Georgia in 1920, Herring attended South Georgia College and then the University of Georgia. With World War II looming, he left the university in 1941 to join the Army Air Corps. In the fall of 1943, he became the pilot of a crew that flew a new B-17 across the North Atlantic to become an airman in the 8th Air Force during the saturation bombing of Europe. The crew was downed on their 15th mission in March 1944 over occupied Belgium. Herring was hidden by members of the Belgian Resistance until that September, when the Allies liberated

Herring has been active in advocacy on behalf of his profession as a commercial fisherman, serving as past president of Southeastern Fisheries (1976-77) and for decades earning the respect of his peers by working with fishery councils and legislatures to protect their interests. He joined Rotary Club of Fort Myers in 1953. Up until the age of 91, he still delivered a Thursday route for Meals-on-Wheels.

President Victoria Stephan said, "Paul's enthusiasm and easy smile are infectious. He is an inspiration for all of us, living the Rotarian motto 'Service Above Self' as a way of life that brings a greater sense of purpose to our activities and evidently a great amount of personal satisfaction and longevity."

The Hour Of Land

by Di Saggau

erry Tempest Williams will be the featured speaker, Friday, February 3 at 7 p.m. at the Rachel Carson Distinguished Lecture to be held at Saint Michael and All Angels

Church, sponsored by Florida Gulf Coast University. Williams will discuss her book The Hour of Land, A Personal Topography of America's National Parks, a literary celebration of our national parks and an exploration of what they mean to us and what we mean to

More than 300 million people visit the parks each year. They serve as breathing spaces in a world in which such spaces are slowly disappearing. The Hour of Land is part memoir, part natural history and part social critique. It is a meditation and a manifesto on why wild lands matter to the soul of America. From the Grand Tetons in Wyoming to Acadia in Maine to Big Bend in Texas and more, Williams creates a series of lyrical portraits that illuminate the unique grandeur of each place while delving into what it means to shape a landscape with its own evolutionary history into something of our own making. She expresses her anger at what's being done or not being done by the government, private companies and polluters. The Hour of Land is not a guidebook, rather it's a journey through various landscapes and involves the politics, activism and history that are a crucial part of it all.

She says, "This is a book about relationships inside America's national parks, and as is always the case with relations, the bonds formed, severed, and renewed within these federal lands are complicated. They are also fundamental to who we are as a country." "Our national parks are blood. They are more than scenery, they are portals and thresholds of wonder, an open door that swings back and forth from our past to our future.

Williams uses poetry, personal stories, letters and even casual conversations to reveal our relationship with nature. Traveling from Big Bend National Park in Texas to the Gates of the Arctic National Park in Alaska, to the Civil War battlefields of Gettysburg, she talks about an art exhibit at Alcatraz by the Chinese artist and activist Ai Weiwei. She writes about Theodore Roosevelt's Elkhorn Ranch in North Dakota, and describes forest fires in Montana's Glacier National Park.

There are fascinating historical facts including how John D. Rockefeller Jr. expanded Grand Teton National Park and how his descendants continued his mission with other national parks. Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona has the highest number of suicides of any national park in the country. She includes a chapter on the Gulf Islands National Seashore in Florida and Mississippi focusing on the BP Deepwater Horizon disaster. Her concern at what humanity is impacting on nature is reflected in her writing. "We have arrived at the hour of land. We have made mistakes, mistakes in our relationships with those who came before us and the land that holds their histories, mistakes in how we have managed and misunderstood the wild. But after spending a lifetime immersed in our national parks, I believe we are slowly learning what it means to offer our reverence and respect to the closest thing we have to sacred lands.

Terry Tempest Williams will be signing books after her February 3 talk followed by a reception in the Parish Hall. The event is free and open to the public. Saint Michael and All Angels Church is located at 2304 Periwinkle Way on Sanibel. The Hour of Land is available at local book

School Smart

by Shelley M. Greggs, NCSP

Readers. Last week's column reviewed the steps taken when a referral for a special education evaluation was initiated. This week, I will cover the next part of this process - when a student is found ineligible at the eligibility meeting.

The testing has been completed, the eligibility team has met, and your child was found ineligible for special education services. So now what happens?

If your child was found ineligible for special education services and you agree with the eligibility findings, then your child will not receive special education. Remember however, she or he was evaluated because of a problem that still needs to be addressed within regular education and that should be discussed with the teacher. Plans should be developed to address the problem. For most parents, the reason(s) why a student is found not eligible for services can be confusing. Below are some reasons why students are not.

The most common reason that a child might be found ineligible for special education services is that your child does not meet criteria for one of the 14 disabilities recognized within special education. The school is required to follow federal guidelines in determining eligibility for special education. Each disability has a federal definition and a strict set of guidelines for determining if a student meets that definition. Some school districts are more flexible with those guidelines. some follow them strictly. However, if a student does not meet the criteria for a disability, she or he will not be eligible to receive special education services.

Another common reason a child is found ineligible is that even though your child has a disability, there is not a documented educational impact. If a student has a diagnosed disability, it does not automatically mean a child will receive special education services. The disability must be creating an adverse effect on education. The way a school measures this adverse effect on education will vary. Some schools compare educational testing to cognitive testing to see if the child is learning to his or her ability level. Other schools will use grades or more qualitative information

This third reason for finding a student ineligible is a most frustrating situation. Your child learns more slowly than other children, but does not qualify for specific learning disability or another designation, even though testing revealed that your child has difficulty learning, struggles to learn new concepts, and it has greatly impacted educational performance. Despite these difficulties, special education services cannot be obtained because this is not considered a "disability." Often called "slow to learn," these are the students who will need the most support within the regular education environment.

Parents can disagree with eligibility findings. When a parent disagrees with the testing results or the eligibility decision, there are actions that can be taken. The first step is to voice the concerns at the eligibility meeting. If you still do not agree with the outcome, go to the director of special education and request an independent educational evaluation (IEE). This is an evaluation by a private professional at the cost of the school system. It is like a second opinion by a neutral person not affiliated with the school system. After this evaluation is completed, the school will use the new data to see if the student meets criteria for special education services. The same eligibility guidelines will be used, but the testing will be different. It may be helpful to talk to an advocate to make sure you understand your rights.

After the IEE, if the parent does not agree that the school is following federal guidelines in determining eligibility, the parent can file a complaint with the state. Usually attempts are made to solve the conflict through mediation at this point. However, in extreme cases, a due process lawsuit will be filed. I would recommend doing everything possible to work together with the school system. Lawsuits should only be used in extreme circumstances. Keep the channels of communication open with your school. It's best for everyone, especially your child, to resolve conflicts through careful discussions instead of resorting to a court battle. It is truly possible to come to mutually acceptable

Connecting Thymus To Electrics

by Karen L. Semmelman, Certified EEM, JD, AAML (03-01)

ast week we learned the thymus gland is intimately involved in our immune system, production of T cells to fight off invading microorganisms and the benefits of thumping thymus to boost the immune system. Connecting thymus to other locations or systems, including the spleen, the electrical system, the "gut" via the navel and the hippocampus (part of the limbic system) is critical to building resiliency to disease and boosting the immune function.

The focus today is on connecting the thymus gland to the electrical system of our body. Every cell of the body has an electrical charge and is part of an energy system known as the electrics. Atoms are made of positively charged protons, negatively charged electrons and neutrons. Cells generate electrical charges and send messages from one point to another by opening gates that have polarity charges, so that the electrical impulse moves from a nerve in your stubbed toe to the part of the brain sensing pain. Earth itself carries a large negative charge. Because the body is finely tuned to earth energy, absorbing electrons through the feet, we want to be "grounded" to tap into this incredible resource. Every living function is powered by electrical current. Pain perception, muscle contraction and movement, nerve function, glandular secretions, etc. are all electrically driven.

The biggest generator of electricity in our body is the heart, a muscle driven by low levels of electrical current. We obviously want to keep it healthy. The brain is a super highway of electrical signals, processing millions of messages to the infrastructure of the body every second. All of these currents are measured by EEG, ECG, EKG and other sophisticated medical devices. When we connect thymus to heart electrics, we are creating a powerful energetic current to help the body rejuvenate and find homeostasis.

The first connection is between thymus gland and the heart electric point. Here is the technique:

1. Begin by thumping the thymus with either hand. Or if it feels better to merely place the palm of the hand on the gland, that is fine, too (especially if you are sensitive to the thumping

2. Locate the heart electric point. It is located directly above the left nipple at a point where it intersects with an imaginary line drawn from the underside of your armpit. Make a notch with your thumb, index and middle finger, placing the notch on this point.

3. Hold this connection for two to four minutes or until you fill a shift in your energy – perhaps a deep breath or deep sigh. Gentle rocking may be soothing.

You learned the first connection. Next week the thymus to spleen connection will be addressed. Enjoy your health!

Have fun with your energy. Next week's topic is Create Immune Resilience with Thymus HUB To Spleen.

If you have a question, email Karen at SemmEnergyCenter@gmail.com or visit www.semmelmanenergy.com. EEM does not diagnose or cure illness, but working with subtle energies of the body has been shown to help many conditions.☆

izzie and Pryce answer your questions and give advice about aging concerns from a twogenerational perspective. A mother and daughter team, Lizzie is a retired RN and health educator, and Pryce is a licensed psychotherapist in private practice who specializes in the care of elders and people with chronic illnesses.

Dear Mom & Me,

My wife and I planned and researched our retirement for five years. I now realize that the planning time was the fun time, not living the lifestyle.

Six months into retirement, my wife was diagnosed with type two diabetes. Her doctor was very specific with the details and a nutritionist counseled us

I have spent the last year going to doctor's offices, taking her to the hospital and trying my best to help her with her diet and exercise. She refuses to cooperate with me and all of the others trying to help her. Is this how people normally behave with this condition?

Dear Phil,

Dear Phil,

It is a mystery to me why some people refuse to help themselves when others are trying so hard to assist them.

I once talked to a heart surgeon who complained about the exact same thing. He tried so hard to help his patients, and then they refused to help themselves e.g., not following his diet or exercise program that he prescribed.

I would suggest you talk to your wife's doctor, tell him your problem, and he/she might have some suggestions.

Lizzie

People react differently to new diagnoses. Bottom line for you, if your wife does not want to follow the advice of her medical team, that is her choice. I am sure she has been advised of the health consequences of non-compliance with her new diet restrictions. As much as you want for her to live successfully as many, many people do with diabetes, she needs to want it for herself.

My advice for you would be to make sure that you go to an elder care attorney for financial planning to protect the family finances should her lack of compliance cause skyrocketing health care costs.

Vitamin E: Why Rubbing It On Is Almost Useless

ear Readers: I heard two women talking at the store about vitamin E. One lady

by Suzy Cohen, RPh

said, "I squeeze a cap out and rub it on this scar [pointing to her elbow]." The other lady said, "It's better if you take it internally but if rubbing it on is working then go right ahead.'

I wanted to pipe in and comment but I resisted. Plus, these ladies did not know who I was, or what I do for a living. I just happened to be standing nearby examining products. I'll settle their debate right now.

Lady #2 is correct, it is better to take it internally by mouth. External applications might feel soothing, but you're really just applying oil to your skin. The oil is helping mostly, not the E.

When you apply vitamin E to your skin, it stops right there. What a shame because vitamin E has incredible benefits inside your body. In 2016, a groundbreaking study showed that vitamin E supplementation (along with omega-3 fatty acids) improved glucose metabolism, serum triglycericdes, VLDL and HDL cholesterol ratios.

Putting it on your skin won't boost SOD or glutathione, but it might if you take it orally. Maybe that's how it helped with atopic dermatitis in mice. There was a 2016 study where researchers concluded, "The activities of SOD [superoxide dismutase] and glutathione peroxidase in the skin and serum were also positively correlated with symptomatic changes... vitamin E may improve the symptoms of atopic dermatitis."

In November 2016, a study published in Nutritional Neuroscience points to the antioxidant capacity of vitamin E in combo with essential fatty acids (EFAs) and how that could improve glutathione (a detoxifying enzyme), benefiting people with serious neurological disorders like schizophrenia.

When you apply E externally, you don't get widespread intracellular benefits to your antioxidant system. In other words, I feel like you might be wasting your softgels, because a skin application of E doesn't work inside the fatty skin cells, where antioxidants are required.

Intracellular oxidative stress or "rusting" of your skin can occur from the sun. We all know someone with wrinkles, sun spots, precancerous cells and premature aging due to sun exposure. Sun blocks play a role in blocking the weakest rays from penetrating your skin but, no matter what, I am convinced that beautiful and healthy skin starts with skin-loving antioxidants.

If you really feel the need to rub E on the outside, and you have spare softgels to do that with, then it is totally fine. It could help, but an external application of E all by itself really short-changes you. I have an incredible follow up to this article at my website, type this title in my search box at suzycohen.com: The Truth About Natural Vitamin E. You will learn how to find "natural" not synthetic brands of E, and how to avoid fake forms. You may not realize this, but almost all vitamin E brands out there contain just one isomer out of 8 natural ones. True story!

My Stars ★★★★

FOR WEEK OF JANUARY 30, 2017

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The changes you've waited to see in your work situation might not be happening quite as quickly as you'd hoped. Although the pace is slow, it's ongoing. Expect to hear news soon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You should be feeling very proud of the fine effort you've made to get that important project done. Now take some time out to celebrate with family and friends. You've earned it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You're close to reaching your objectives. That's the good news. But be careful: Your aspects show lots of potential distractions looming. Stay focused and keep your eyes fixed on your goals.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be careful not to let that suspicious Cancerian mind create a problem where none exists. What you might believe is an act of betrayal could be nothing more than a misunderstanding.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your Lion's heart overflows with self-confidence. All you need to do is tap into it, and you'll be able to handle any change that must be made regarding that recent surprise development.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The need to watch what you say becomes increasingly crucial this week. Be as temperate as you can with your comments and avoid arguments for the sake of controversy.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A longtime family problem presents new demands. But this time, you won't have to go it alone: Someone else is asking to help share your responsibilities. Let it happen.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A period of feeling vulnerable is about to give way to a stronger, more self-confident aspect. Use this new strength to reaffirm promises you've made to others and yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A creative dilemma stalls your progress. Instead of letting it raise your ire, use the time to re-examine your aims and, perhaps, come up with a new target.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your nimble will finds a way for you to work out those newly emerged problems plaguing your new project. Stay with it. The results will be well worth your efforts.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might feel overwhelmed at having to decide which new opportunity you should follow. Best advice: Check them all out and see which offers what you really want.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Continue to tread water before you even consider plunging into something that never seemed quite right. Some facts will soon emerge that can help you make a decision.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're a naturalborn peacemaker. You value truth and have little patience with those who lie to you for their own purposes.

THIS WEEK IN HISTORY

- On Feb. 1, 1790, the Supreme Court of the United States meets for the first time, with Chief Justice John Jay of New York presiding. The Constitution granted the Supreme Court ultimate jurisdiction over all laws.
- On Jan. 30, 1835, in the House chamber of the U.S. Capitol, President Andrew Jackson survives the first attempted assassination of a U.S. president. A man fired two pistols at Jackson at close range, but incredibly, both failed to discharge.
- but incredibly, both failed to discharge.

   On Feb. 4, 1961, "The Misfits," starring Marilyn Monroe, Clark Gable and Montgomery Clift, is released. The film about four rootless losers trying to survive in the modern-day West was largely ignored until Gable and Monroe both died shortly after its release.
- On Jan. 31, 1971, Apollo 14 is successfully launched from Cape Canaveral, Florida, on a manned mission to the moon. After suffering some initial problems in docking, astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell made the third U.S. moon landing on Feb. 5.
- On Feb. 2, 1996, dancer, actor and choreographer Gene Kelly dies at age 83. Kelly graduated with a degree in economics during the Great Depression, but with finance jobs scarce, he got his start by working at a dancing school partly owned by his mother.
  - On Feb. 3, 2002, the New England

Patriots stun the heavily favored St. Louis Rams, 20-17, for their first Super Bowl victory. Pats' kicker Adam Vinatieri made the winning 48-yard field goal as the clock expired.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

- If you're like me, you find it hard to resist a good book, and their abundant availability presents a problem: Good books are being published faster than they can be read. This leads to an extensive TBR (to-be-read) list, much of which is stacked on the bedside tables of readers the world over. (The introduction of ebooks has only worsened the problem; now the books stack up with no visual reminder of how many there are.) I don't have a solution, but it may help to know that the Japanese have a word to describe this behavior. "Tsundoku" means "the acquiring of reading materials followed by letting them pile up and subsequently never reading them.'
- It was American philosopher George Santayana who made the following sage observation: "Language is like money, without which specific relative values may well exist and be felt, but cannot be reduced to a common denominator."
- Polar bears can grow to be massive, weighing more than 2,000 pounds as adults. However, when they're born, polar bear cubs weigh no more than a pound.
- In January of 1914, the Ford Motor Company doubled workers' wages, to $5 per day, stating, "We want those who have helped us to produce this great institution and are helping to maintain it to share our prosperity." Describing this unprecedented move, The Wall Street Journal opined "[Ford has] committed economic blunders, if not crimes." Confounding critics' expectations, Ford doubled its profits within two years.
- Religious scholars know that they'll find no mention of peanuts, cashews, pecans or macadamias in the Bible; the only nuts mentioned in that book are almonds and pistachios.
