The Best Of Times At New Phoenix Theatre

by Di Saggau

a Cage aux Folles is not an easy show to put together and I'm happy to say that New Phoenix Theatre has done a spectacular job. Directed by Brenda Kensler, La Cage is a musical that champions homosexuality with a cast of characters that will find their way into your heart. The leads are Scott Carpenter as Georges, and his wife Albin who performs as the drag diva Zaza, played by Thomas Marsh. I have enjoyed Carpenter in numerous plays over the years and he is at the top of his game as the owner and master of ceremonies of La Cage. Marsh blew me away in The Elephant Man at Theatre Conspiracy recently, and he does the same in this plum role, handling Zaza's over the top temperament with great physical comedy. Both sing well.

If you are familiar with the movie The Bird Cage, you know the plot of La Cage. Georges and Albin, living in an apartment above the theater, have raised Georges' son Jean-Michel (Cameron Rogers), the result of a onenight heterosexual encounter. When Jean-Michel announces he is going to marry Anne Dindon (Stella Ruiz), the daughter of an ultra-conservative, anti-gay politician, he asks Albin to stay in the background so not to embarrass them. This sets off an emotional firestorm. Albin decides to pretend he is Jean-Michel's "mother" and that makes for some very funny moments. Charlie Greer and Cindi Heimberg play the Dindons and also add to the humor.

Scott Carpenter and Thomas Marsh in La Cage aux Folles

There are some wonderful musical numbers, including I Am What I Am, performed by a defiant Zaza, Look Over There, where Georges tries to convince Jean-Michel of Albin's parental love, and a stirring The Best of Times is Now, with the entire cast. Music Director Julian Sundby and his crew do a great job providing the musical accompaniment. A wonderful group of Cagelles in sexy costume add greatly to the production. They are Rosie DeLeon, Sandra Dixon, Laura Glynn, Chet Gridley, Zan Jabara, Ken Johnson, Ben Lamoureaux and Sage Meyers. Joey Bostic, who plays Georges and Albin's maid Jacob, does a stellar job in providing numerous hysterical scenes. He is tall and gorgeous, and oh so funny. Others in the show are Gil Perez, Kenneth Cosmo Ruisi and John Daniel Strealy.

The seating has been transformed into a cabaret style that definitely fits the mood of the show. La Cage aux Folles is terrific fun from start to finish and I strongly recommend you take it in. It plays through March 31 at New Phoenix Theatre, located at 13211 McGregor Boulevard in Fort Myers. For tickets, call 284-5214.

emerging scene. Each songwriter plays a set of original music and discusses the craft and inspiration that went into each piece between songs.

Goodson is a Southwest Florida singer-songwriter who recently caught the attention of Miami rapper Trina. Trina just started a new record label called Rockstarr, and Goodson is one of the first artists to be signed to the label. His new album was released last month continued on page 18

Historic Downtown Fort Myers, Then And Now: Rotary Club Plays Ball

by Gerri Reaves, PhD

his circa-1922 photo was apparently taken before or after a Rotary baseball game on McGregor Boulevard. The location of this southward view is near the edge of McGregor between Clifford Street and Euclid Avenue (today's Altamont Avenue). The ballfield known as both League Park and League Field was the site of festivals and other celebrations, circuses, baseball and football games, revival meetings, and many other activities. Baseball games were played there between teams like the Rotary Club pictured here, and competition and public interest could be intense.

In August 1922, for example, excitement over the Rotary versus Kiwanis game was so high that the town's drug stores closed early so fans could get to the field. After that benefit game, the Rotary and Kiwanis were able to donate $134 to Boy Scout Troop 1. At least eight men in the photo are wearing baseball uniforms, seven in the front row and one standing center. The player seated in the center holds a catcher's mitt and baseball in his lap. Other men appear to be members of an impromptu band, including several standing in the back holding cymbals and the man

The house in the background across McGregor was Mrs. EM (Eleita Fox) Colcord's. She was the widowed mother of Alberta Colcord Barnes and Nell Colcord Weidenbach. Those sisters would grow up to be local historians and recount their memories of growing up across from the busy "vacant lot," as they called the ballfield, during the early 1920s. For children like Alberta and Nell, League Park was a marvelous open riverfront playground.

The former Colcord home still stands on McGregor and faces the rear of Publix, which is located at the former League Park site photo by Gerri Reaves

The Rotary Club was still a new club when the photo was taken. It had originated on the evening of March 3, 1922 at the Lee County Bank at Main and Hendry - an event that generated the Fort Myers Press's front page headline the following day: "Rotary Club Organized Here." There was a subsequent meeting at the Bradford Hotel for anyone interested in the new club. They applied for membership in the International Association of Rotary Clubs and, on April 1, became the fourth club in Florida to be chartered. Ora E. Chapman became the first president.

The Rotarians officially received their charter in May 1922 at a presentation at the Riverview Hotel. The guest speaker was Frank Stoneman, editor of the Miami Herald and father to Marjorie Stoneman Douglas, who would later write River of Grass, the classic book about the Everglades.

During those early boom years, the club held weekly luncheons or dinners at various restaurants around town, such as the Bradford Hotel, Cottage Home Hotel, and the Seminole Café, all on First Street; El Boulevard Café; Corrigan's on Hendry; and the Spanish-American Restaurant on Main Street.

Dues and lunch prices reflected economic times in those early years. Annual dues were $80 in the late 1920s but dipped to only $6.25 per quarter by 1932 after the Great Depression had taken hold.

Since the Rotary baseball team played in the field all those decades ago, Boulevard Plaza and Edison-Ford Square have come and gone. Publix opened on the site in 2007, and the "vacant lot" is no longer devoted to only fun and games.

One point of continuity: The house in the background of the historic photo background still stands.

Walk down McGregor and imagine the magical "vacant lot" that once served as a focal point for so much community activity. Then visit the following two research centers to learn more about the many clubs that have enriched Fort Myers over the years.

Habitat's Fourth ReStore Location Now Open

Habitat of Lee and Hendry Counties' newest discount home improvement store recently opened its doors in the McGregor Pointe Shopping Center. Shoppers will find everything from furniture to cabinets and vanities, to construction materials, appliances and lighting at a fraction of retail prices while helping build affordable housing and preventing good items from ending up in the landfill.

The new 26,200 square foot store is chock full of new and gently used appliances, building materials, cabinets, doors, flooring, furniture, hardware, housewares, lighting, plumbing, tools and windows. It is an ideal shopping spot for homeowners, renters, college students, do-it-yourselfers, contractors, interior designers, landlords and treasure hunters. The store is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. All proceeds from ReStore sales support Habitat's mission to build strength, stability and self-reliance through affordable housing. "Every ReStore purchase creates the opportunity for a better life," said Tammy Moran, vice president of ReStores. "All sales help Habitat construct homes for affordable homeownership, provide critical home repairs, revitalize neighborhoods and support financial literacy classes for community members."

This is Habitat's fourth ReStore in Lee and Hendry counties. Other locations are in Fort Myers, North Fort Myers and Bonita Springs. Directions and more info can be found at www.restorelee.org.

"The ReStore keeps perfectly good items out of local landfills, stimulates the economy by providing well-paying jobs and helps local families purchase affordable homes," said Kitty Green, president and CEO of Habitat for Humanity of Lee and Hendry Counties. "We are always looking for donations and local shoppers to keep the Habitat mission moving forward."

Donations are welcome, and they can be made in person. For larger items, you can schedule a pickup online at www. restorelee.org or call 652-0388.

McGregor Pointe Shopping Center is located at 15271 McGregor Boulevard in Fort Myers. For more information, visit www.restorelee.org.

Community Appraisal Day

The Alliance for the Arts, in partnership with Leslie Hindman Auctioneers, will host a Community Appraisal Day on Saturday, March 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Fort Myers Art: Rock And Roll Musical Opens March 22

by Tom Hall

Broadway's model of the sensation Million Dollar Quartet opens next Friday, March 22 at Florida Repertory Theater. The musical reprises a jam session that made music history in 1956. It occurred when Memphis record producer Sam Phillips brought four of his newest clients together to make music. That fab four consisted of Carl Perkins, Jerry Lee Lewis, Johnny Cash and Elvis Presley.

Million Dollar Quartet took Broadway by storm and provides an electrifying glimpse of the four legends before they became rock 'n' roll icons. The musical features over 20 rock 'n' roll hits, including Blue Suede Shoes, Hound Dog, Sixteen Tons, Great Balls of Fire and many more.

"This musical is like nothing the Arcade Theatre has ever seen," said Artistic Director Greg Longenhagen. "Not only will the music blow the roof off of the arcade, but the story is compelling. And looking at these four musicians at the start of their iconic careers is touching, funny and extremely exciting. Elvis Presley, Johnny changed the music industry, and I can't wait for you to hear their story and their music."

Florida Rep has assembled an A-list cast for the musical with several of them playing their roles for a fifth, sixth and even the 10th time. Florida Rep ensemble member Brendan Powers (Hay Fever) returns this season as record producer Sam Phillips and is joined by Joe Boover as Elvis (Florida Rep debut), Gregg Hammer as Johnny Cash (Florida Rep debut), Jeremy Sevelovitz as Carl Perkins (Florida Rep debut) and Brady Wease as Jerry Lee Lewis (Shear Madness). Also joining the cast are Julie Kavanagh

Symphony Hosting Bach Birthday Bash

The Southwest Florida Symphony continues its 58th season of small stage symphonies with Back to Back Bach: the Bach Birthday Bash. The concerts will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 20 at the Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center; Thursday, March 21 at the Village Church at Shell Point; and Friday, March 22 at The Community House.

In keeping with the Southwest Florida Symphony's exploration in the fusion of classical music with other genres, this series features Bach reimagined, reinterpreting the music from a contemporary perspective. The music of JS Bach is infused with rich harmonies, fluid counterpoints and a rhythmic groove in a multitude of musical styles. Drawing on his extensive experience in a variety of musical idioms, pianist/arranger Matt Herskowitz lends a unique voice to the music while maintaining the compositional integrity of the original, resulting in new settings that feel quest thrillers. He is in the final stages of completing his debut novel titled Art Detective. A former tax attorney, he lives in Estero with his fiancé and their four cats.口

crow case of the Week: Gopher Tortoise

by Bob Petcher

The gopher tortoise (Gopherus polyphemus) is so named due to its propensity to burrow holes, typically to be used as dwellings. In fact, the underground spaces that this good Samaritan creates can provide shelter for reportedly 400 or so other animal species. Thus, the gopher tortoise is known as a keystone species.

To build these homes and tunnels, the gopher tortoise relies on its shovellike front legs and strong back legs that work as anchors to "drill" into dirt, hand-packed sand and coastal dunes. These burrows can be up to 10 feet deep and 40 feet long. At CROW, an adult male gopher

At CROW, an adult male gopher tortoise was admitted from North Fort Myers after being attacked by a dog. Upon intake, veterinarians noted severe wounds to both front limbs and moderate wounds on the rear limbs from being chewed on by the dog. The front limbs had bone exposure and moderate contamination.

"The injuries on the front legs are extensive from the chewing of the dog(s)," said Dr. Kyle Abbott, CROW veterinary intern. "The right front leg has exposed muscle and bone. The left front leg has exposed muscle. The contamination was severe considering the level of bacteria contained within the mouths of dogs and the dirt that subsequently was introduced to the site. The tortoise is also missing a few nails on the front right leg, which may affect his ability to dig long-term. The rear legs had some abrasions from chewing, but these wounds were more superficial and only require mild bandaging.

"Despite all this, the tortoise seems to be able to use the legs quite well when walking, and he is very active and eating great."

The wounds on all limbs were flushed and bandaged. The tortoise was also given pain medications and antibiotics. Since admitted on February 27, the tortoise has been receiving wound management care that has involved bandage changes.

"The wounds are being managed with bandage changes that started with daily changes and are now every two to three days," said Dr. Abbott. "The bandages help to keep the wounds clean and moist. This is designed to allow for the tortoise's tissues to cover the exposed muscle and bone. As time goes on, we will use dry bandages to help protect the wounds and then eventually will have the tortoise heal without bandages."

Time will tell if the patient can continue to help wildlife by burrowing holes for commensal species, ones that benefit from the gopher tortoise's

Patient #19-0469 gets some exercise outdoors while being bandaged up digging. Gopher tortoises are state listed as threatened in Florida. Without appropriate protections and conservation actions, the gopher tortoise could become endangered.

"The tortoise continues to be active when taken outside to get sun and eat grass. He has been eating well," said Dr. Abbott. "The threat of him not being released is if his wounds get worse and cannot heal, or if he is unable to dig burrows without some of his front right claws.

"Before he is released, we will need to assess his ability to dig. His healing process will take weeks to months, so we will be patient and watch him closely while he is healing."

12 THE RIVER - MARCH 15, 2019 Endless Options

by Capt. Matt Mitchell

strong midweek cold front did little to shut down the great fishing we have been experiencing; it was just a matter of changing the game plan. Water temperatures in the bay dropped 12 degrees almost overnight and shut the snook bite down for a couple of days. In the meantime, I switched it up and had a great trip catching sheepshead on shrimp. I know it's still way too early to call winter done, although any more cold fronts hopefully should be brief.

Right before this last cold front passed, action on snook and mangrove snapper was non-stop. Every windblown shoreline seemed to hold fish. Then once the cold front passed, late morning winds switched and blew hard from the north, and the bite was over. Timing with cold fronts is everything and as little as an hour can make the difference between crushing them or never bending a rod. Even a few days before a front, you see the action getting better and better right up to the wide open bite we experience just before the cold front moves through.

Catching sheepshead in and around the passes during these brief cold periods was a great option once you found the fish. Often this fishing requires making several moves until you locate them. This was the story for us this week as we had only caught a few keepers until we found that one dock that was loaded up. Within 30 minutes, we had as many as we needed for a few good meals. Most of our sheepshead that day measured between 14 and 17 inches.

Pitching live shiners on the eastern side of the sound, anglers enjoyed both great action and clean, clear water. Snook and mangrove snapper were the majority of the fish caught, though we did manage a few redfish and an occasional trout. Once you cross the sound to the west side, the water looks totally different, stirred up and dirty. During the last few hours of the outgoing tide, water in and around the passes has cleaned up some. This is the more productive time to fish the passes for snook.

With another full week of warm weather in the forecast, our water temperature should climb back into the mid-70s giving anglers endless possibilities. On calm days, getting out mid-day along the beaches for mackerel and bonita while searching for a tripletail is a great option, but bring a big stick too as you may run into big sharks. Right before this last cold front, we had the first reports of tarpon both in Boca Grande along with a few showing on the clam leases and rocky channel in the middle sound. These fish should quickly return too as waters warm back up. The Burnt Store Bar all the way south to Matlacha has also been a good option if you have the time to sight fish for cobia. I like to spend my days catch and release snook fishing while keeping my eyes open to take advantage of anything else that pops up.

Grant Approved For Garden Center

Barden Street Community Garden Learning Center

t the recent Fort Myers Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) Lboard meeting, the commissioners approved a grant for up to $13,000 in support of the $246,000 Barden Street Community Garden Learning Center (BCG), as requested by the I Will Mentorship Foundation.

More than just a garden, this urban initiative will infuse 21st century agricultural skills and the beautification of a blighted neighborhood with art and culture. This multi-faceted effort combines community development, nutrition, education, entrepreneurship, local economic development and community enjoyment. Once established, the BCG will be open to community groups for hands-on nutrition education, where residents from the surrounding area will be encouraged to eat healthy foods grown in the garden.

BCG will be located between Barden and Flint streets just south of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard, which is directly south of the I Will Mentorship Foundation's headquarters in the

The requested $13,000 funding will be used to construct the garden's signs, art wall and valor reflection area. Overall, the project will take three years to fully complete. It will have the capacity to provide over a thousand pounds of organic vegetables and 200 pounds of fish.

The living valor reflection area will be on the reverse side of the garden signage wall. This area will recognize veterans and first responders. BCG will offer programs to serve 60 family units in the City of Fort Myers and Lee County, with its primary participants being the communities within a 10-mile radius of the garden – areas where residents have little access to green space, face high unemployment and underemployment, as well as few extracurricular activities available to them. Once BCG is completed, the primary activities of its fresh start project will include cooking, gardening, creative arts and fitness classes, and entrepreneurial projects for community sustainment.举

Day Of Giving For Children's Hospital March 27

hroughout March. customers at four Jersey Mike's locations in Southwest Florida can donate to the Little Red Wagon Fund at Golisano Children's Hospital.

The monthlong campaign ends March 27 with Jersey Mike's Day of Giving, when 100 percent of the day's sales at the four restaurants will be donated to Golisano Children's Hospital.

The Little Red Wagon Fund fulfills the region's critical pediatric healthcare needs through innovative programs, technologies and services.

'This is an incredibly generous and appreciated gesture by Jersey Mike's. These local franchise owners are not just donating a portion of their proceeds or profits – it's every transaction through the cash register that day," said Armando Llechu, the hospital's chief administrative officer. "These dollars will go directly to the Little Red Wagon Fund, which enables specialized services and programs to be developed, helping Golisano Children's Hospital provide care to the neediest patients while helping to attract and retain top clinical talent. No child is turned away because of their family's inability to pay, so we are thankful that corporate partners like Jersey Mike's support us to ensure all patients have access to world-class pediatric care close to home.

The four Southwest Florida locations donating proceeds to Golisano Children's Hospital include:

Bonita Springs: 8951 Bonita Beach Road, Suite 250 (10 a.m. to 9 p.m.)

South Fort Myers: 6810 Shoppes at Plantation Drive, suite 4 (10 a.m. to 9 p.m.)

Fort Myers: 4600 Summerlin Road, Suite C3 (10 a.m. to 9 p.m.) Port Charlotte: 1804 Tamiami Trail, Suite E-6 (7 a.m. to 9 p.m.)

"Last year's nationwide Month of Giving initiative raised more than $6 million for charities making a big difference in their local communities, and this year, we hope to raise even more," said Peter Cancro, Jersey Mike's founder and CEO. "From the early days, it's just what we've always done – give to give, as they say."

Plant Smart Green Milkweed

by Gerri Reaves

reen milkweed (Asclepias viridisis) Jis one of many Asclepias species native to the state. It has a lot to recommend it: stunning ornamental flowers in unusual color combinations, value to butterflies and low maintenance.

This wildflower grows in much of the southeastern and lower central U.S. It is a larval host and nectar source for monarch and queen butterflies and thus a good choice for a butterfly or natural garden.

The word viridis in the botanical name refers to the greenish color, also referred to in other common names, green antelopehorn and green-crowned milkweed. Another name is spider milkweed.

The plant grows up to two feet tall in a spreading open form. The alternate narrow leaves are generally oblong, two to five inches long, and sometimes covered in very fine hairs. The edges are often wavy and the midvein reddish or yellow.

The inflorescence is an umbrel – think "umbrella" – in which the flower stalks appear to originate from the same point.

There's usually only one umbrel per plant, but very large plants can have as many as 10, each with 10 or more flowers.

Each five-petaled white or greenish yellow flower measures about a half-inch across. The collective petals, or corolla, are creamy or greenish and the stamens purplish.

Flowers bloom early spring through fall.

Native green milkweed is a nectar and host plant for monarch and queen butterflies photo by Gerri Reaves

The seeds in the pod are attached to silky strand that aid in dispersal by wind.

Green milkweed prefers full sun and moist soil but has high drought tolerance, partly due to taproots. It will tolerate nutrient-poor soil but not salty habitats.

Cultivate it with the seeds. As with other milkweed species, the stems exude a sticky milky substance when broken.

The milky sap can be irritating to the skin and ingestion by people or animals can be toxic.

Planting native milkweed supports monarch butterflies, whose plummeting populations are of serious concern in recent years. Consider planting several native Asclepias to create monarch habitat.

Be sure to buy all milkweed from a nursery that does not expose the plants to pesticides at any stage of their growth.

Otherwise, the butterflies and pollinators you want to attract to your yard will be lured to their deaths.

Tax Collector's Office Donation For Art Education

he Lee County Tax Collector's Office recently presented checks totaling $34,400 to 48 Lee County public schools and honored nearly 100 children as part of a recent ceremony celebrating Kids Tag Art, a partnership between Lee County Tax Collector's Office and the Foundation for Lee County Public Schools.

The program encourages fifth-grade students to come up with front-end license plate designs, with this year's Sizzle N' The Arts theme serving as a prompt. The winning designs will be sold at www.leetc. com, with proceeds going toward the schools. The Tax Collector's Office also sells sponsorships of the program, raising even more money that goes to fund elementary-level art classes.

"It's heartwarming to see how Kids Tag Art inspires so many young minds here in our community," Lee County Tax Collector Larry Hart said. "The program helps offset a lack of funding for art education, and it also shows students how they can apply their art in commerce, as witnessed by all the plate designs we have for sale.

Inherited IRAs

by Craig R. Hersch, Florida Bar Board Certified Wills, Trusts & Estates Attorney; CPA

find many of my clients to be confused over the income tax rules when we leave an IRA account to a loved one upon our demise. Here, I'm going to clear up the confusion. Many of us are familiar with Individual Retirement Account (IRA) required minimum distribution (RMD) rules. Once we attain age $70^{1/2}$ – technically, it's April 1 following the date we turn $70^{1/2}$ – we must begin taking distributions based upon IRS actuary tables. Most of us take distributions based upon the Uniform Life Table, unless the taxpayer is married to someone 10 years younger, and that spouse is the sole beneficiary of the IRA. Then there is another table that applies.

Generally speaking, in order to calculate the annual RMD, on the appropriate table you find the divisor corresponding to this calendar year's age, dividing the prior year's December 31 balance by that divisor. So if I'm 75 years of age owning $500,000 of IRA assets as of December 31 of the prior calendar year, the divisor on the Uniform Life Table is 22.9 resulting in a RMD of $21,834.

Traditional IRAs have RMDs, where Roth IRAs do not have RMDs for the account owner.

What happens when we pass on and leave our IRA to our spouse? At that time our spouse will rollover the IRA account and now she becomes the plan participant. This action resets the RMD based upon her age according to the Uniform Life Table. Roth IRAs, in addition to tax-free withdrawals, do not have RMDs. If a spouse rolls over a Roth IRA, then she will not have an RMD just as you, as the original account owner, will not have an RMD.

So what happens when a non-spouse beneficiary inherits an IRA account? Assume that you leave your IRA account to your two children, son and daughter. Your children are obviously not your spouse, so they do not have the ability to roll over your IRA. The IRA becomes an "Inherited IRA." Assuming John Smith names his son, Peter, and daughter, Cynthia, as 50 percent beneficiaries each, then his IRA account splits into two shares: "The John Smith Inherited IRA f/b/o (for the benefit of) Peter" and "The John Smith Inherited IRA f/b/o Cynthia."

Peter can move his share to whatever custodian he prefers, as can Cynthia. So if Peter wishes to move his Inherited IRA to Fidelity and Cynthia wants to move her Inherited IRA to Vanguard, each can do so. If the IRA accounts are "More than a meticulously researched chronicle of the disasters that shaped Fort Myers, this book details the historical moment of each blaze, creating a rich portrait of a community forged and tempered by fire. A must-read for anyone interested in area history, with riches for newcomers and experts alike." - Amy Bennett Williams "traditional" IRAs, then both Peter and Cynthia will have RMDs based upon a "Single Life Table." The RMDs begin in the year following their father's death, no matter their age.

Assume that Peter is 60 years old and his share has $250,000 and Cynthia is 58 years old and her share also has $250,000. Peter's divisor under the Single Life Table is 25.2, resulting in a RMD of $9,921. Cynthia's divisor is 27 resulting in a RMD of $9,259. Rather than moving down the RMD table, with an Inherited IRA, both Peter and Cynthia subtract one from the divisor each year until the Inherited IRA account is exhausted. Consequently, in the next calendar year, Peter's divisor to compute his RMD would be 24.2 and Cynthia's would be 26.

The Single Life Table divisor is also used for Inherited Roth IRA accounts. Recall that the plan participant or a spouse who rolls over a Roth does not have RMDs. But Inherited Roth IRAs do have RMDs. Therefore, Roth IRA accounts will eventually be drained entirely.

If either Peter or Cynthia dies before the Inherited IRA is fully withdrawn, the next beneficiary would continue the RMDs under Peter's or Cynthia's table (the divisor does not reset) until the account is fully exhausted.

Because distribution from traditional Inherited IRAs triggers income tax, the estate planning surrounding your IRA accounts becomes important. You should not just complete a beneficiary designation and leave it with that. Instead, you should discuss what you want your estate plan to accomplish for your loved ones with your estate planning attorney, paying particular attention to these valuable accounts.

Book Review The Lost Girls Of Paris

by Di Saggau

Paris is a fictional account of unsung women operatives who helped pave the way for D-Day. Jenoff follows a network of female WWII operatives in a smartly constructed narrative. In 1946 New York, a young war widow Grace Healy comes across a mysterious suitcase at Grand Central. It contains photos of 12 women. She is determined to learn about the women so she follows a trail through New Work and Washington, DC, to find out who they are.

In the novel's second storyline, we meet the girls' leader, Eleanor Trigg, an indomitable heroine. She recruited Marie Roux in 1943 for the Special Operations Executive to work undercover as a radio operator with the French Resistance. Eleanor feels women are less conspicuous as spies than men. After rigorous training, Marie, who speaks French, is dropped into an area north of Paris to send wireless transmissions.

The author tells the tales in brief chapters, varying between Grace's search and wartime chapters told by Marie and Eleanor. Grace soon learns that the suitcase belonged to Eleanor, leader of the network of female secret agents who were deployed out of London during the war. Twelve of these women were sent to Occupied Europe as couriers and radio operators to aid the resistance, but they never returned home, their fates a mystery.

Marie is a young single mother, driven by financial concerns to accept the dangerous assignment. Eleanor is a young Polish Jew with a tragic story, living in Britain and totally absorbed by her work. It's refreshing to see all three protagonists taking on dangerous assignments in different ways.

Author Lisa Wingate says, "Fraught with danger filled with mystery, and meticulously researched, The Lost Girls of Paris is a fascinating tale of the hidden women who helped to win the war." I found the book a mesmerizing tale full of appealing characters, intrigue and suspense.

DShelley, My third grader seems to be more anxious lately. I want to talk with her about it, and I want to ask and say things that are really helpful for her. Sometimes it's difficult to find the right words to connect. Do you have any suggestions?

Alex.

Alex T, Fort Myers

Many children have anxiety which can easily increase or decrease as situations change. One way to decrease anxiety is to discuss it. Children often experience a decrease in anxiety when they talk with a trusted parent, family member or friend. Below are some suggested phrases that may allow your child to feel comfortable enough to open up and talk about what's bothering them. One way to help them discuss it is to ask if they need to know any more about their anxiety. This is particularly helpful for situations when they might be worried about natural disasters, animals, elevators and the like.

You should start off by reassuring your child by telling her she is safe and that they are free to talk about the problem. Anxiety often scares children so by saying something like, "this is scary, but you are safe," is a great way to give comfort and support. Next, it's important to acknowledge your child's fear by also adding a statement that this feeling will pass because we are going to develop a plan. There are several techniques to use to help your child describe their anxious state. You might ask your child to draw a picture of it and ask about the size of their feelings. Do they feel like it's bigger than them, a part of them or a little piece of them? This may help your child put their feelings in perspective.

Another technique to use is to ask your child what they want to know about their worry. Some children feel empowered when they have more information about their fear. This strategy is particularly useful for things like tornados, hurricanes, bees, elevators, etc.

Ask your child which calming strategy they want to use to help themselves. They may be too anxious to remember what works, so it's important for you as a parent to have a list of strategies to suggest. Deep breathing, listening to music, drawing or playing a board game are all simple but effective ways to reduce anxiety. You may want to start out with taking some calming breaths together. Verbalize what you are doing and how it makes you feel.

Anxious children often feel stuck in the same pattern. Help them see different options and choices they can make. Making different choices will "change the ending" and the pattern that they feel they are stuck in.

And, of course, make sure to ask them

Financial Focus The Right Insurance Can Meet All Needs

by Jennifer Basey

f you're going to achieve your important financial goals, you'll need to build an appropriate investment portfolio. But that's only part of the story – because you also need to protect what you have, what you earn and what you'd like to leave behind. That's why it's a good idea to become familiar with the various types of insurance and how they can address short- and long-term needs.

For starters, consider life insurance. You may have important long-term goals, such as leaving an inheritance for your family and providing resources for your favorite charities. You may be able to fulfill some of these through the death benefit on your policy.

You can also purchase life insurance to help fill the gap between the amounts you have saved and what your family would need if you died unexpectedly. Thus, insurance can pay for liabilities (such as a mortgage, car payments, student loans and other debts), education expenses (such as college for your children) and final expenses associated with your passing.

Next, consider disability insurance. If you were injured or became ill and couldn't work for a while, the loss of income could be a big problem for your family members - in fact, it could disrupt their entire lifestyle. Even a short-term disability could prove worrisome, while a long-term disability could be catastrophic. Your employer might offer short-term disability insurance, and that could be enough - but do you really want to take that chance? To protect your income if you were out of work for an extended period, you might need to supplement your employer's coverage with your own long-term disability policy. Long-term disability insurance, which generally kicks in after you've used up your short-term benefits, may pay you for a designated time period (perhaps two to five years) or until your reach a certain age, such as 65. Long-term disability insurance likely won't replace your entire income, but it can go a long way toward helping you stay "above water" until you recover.

You may also want to think about long-term care insurance. Despite its name, a long-term care policy could meet either short- or long-term needs. On the short-term end, you might need the services of a home health care aide to assist you in your recovery from an injury such as a broken hip. On the other end of the long-term care scale, you might someday need an extensive stay in a nursing home, which can be extremely expensive and which isn't typically covered by Medicare. But in either case, you might be able to benefit from a long-term care insurance policy, or possibly a long-term care rider attached to a life insurance policy. And the earlier you take action, the better, because long-term care insurance, in particular, generally becomes more expensive the older you get.

This list of insurance policies, and the needs they can help meet, is certainly not

Consider An Area Rug To Complete Any Room

by Linda Coin

Have you ever finished decorating a room in your home, and it still seems like something's missing? As if there's one final piece of decor that could potentially bring the room together, but you can't quite put your finger on it? Here's a hint: Look down. If your hardwood (or fully carpeted) floors seem dull or too exposed, perhaps an area rug is the finishing touch you need.

You can easily address that "something's missing" feeling you have after decorating your space by placing an area rug in the room. This piece of decor area rug in the room. This piece of decor can tie the room together by bringing furniture ends to a common meeting point, and by creating an overall cozy feeling in the atmosphere.

Does your room seem dull and lacking in style? With an area rug, you can make a statement where it matters most. If you're not interested in going big and bold with wall colors, furniture or light fixtures, make it happen with a colorful area rug. This piece of decor can help bring out your wild and creative side.

While hardwood or ceramic floors are timeless when it comes to style, they can fall flat in the comfort department. An area rug can help make your guests feel more comfortable on a cold winter's day, and more relaxed when you want to spend the night in, curled up on the couch.

Perhaps you're looking for a simple way to make a big statement in your home without committing to any serious exhaustive, but it should give you an idea of just how important the right insurance coverage can be for you – at almost any stage of your life.

renovations. Investing in a fully carpeted living room may transform the space, but it's going to take a lot of time, effort and funds to achieve. By purchasing a stylish area rug instead, you can still make a statement in your home, but it won't cost you nearly as much. Additionally, it's not a permanent change – area rugs can be moved around a space, or even to a different room. Plus, you can take them with you if you move into a different home. All these reasons make it a worthy, versatile investment in the long run.

While it may come across as a simple piece of decor, choosing the perfect area rug can be an intimidating venture. If you need help finding one that fits your space, get in touch with an interior design professional to evaluate the room's size, style and atmosphere to provide area rug recommendations. An area rug can add a completely new element of style to your room.

The Tommy Bohanon Foundation, operated by local NFL player Tommy Bohanon and his wife Katie, have started the Tommy Bohanon Scholarship Fund at the Southwest Florida Community Foundation.

After playing for North Fort Myers High School and graduating in 2008, Bohanon went on to play at Wake Forest and later for the Jacksonville Jaguars as a fullback.

The Tommy Bohanon Foundation, a 501c3 nonprofit organization, was founded in 2017 and supports young athletes to reach their highest potential on and off the field. Both Bohanons were raised in Southwest Florida and recognize the opportunities young athletes can obtain. They also recognize the obstacles that youth in this area often face that prohibit them from reaching their highest potential.

"Our foundation's mission is to fill the void youth in Southwest Florida often face and assist young athletes to excel in all aspects of life," said Tommy Bohanon. "Our vision is to ensure that generational poverty discontinues through the young athletes that are a part of our programs."

Through their foundation's programs, including an annual summer football ickets are selling fast for Southwest Florida's premier tennis event. The greatest men's doubles team of all-time, two of the top-ranked American singles players in the world and former Wimbledon and French Open champions are among the worldclass tennis talent playing in this year's Golisano Children's Hospital Pro Tennis Classic, the grand finale of Madisen's Match. The stars will take the court on Monday, March 18 at 7 p.m. inside Suncoast Credit Union Arena on the campus of Florida SouthWestern State College. Limited seating is still available at www.madisensmatch.com.

Mike Bryan, the reigning No. 1 doubles player in the world, will again team with decorated brother Bob Bryan in the night's marquee matchup. The Bryans are fresh off their 117th doubles title, recently winning the Delray Beach Open. They'll take on an impromptu doubles pairing of top-ranked Americans Taylor Fritz and Sam Querrey.

Before that, Fritz and Querrey will square off in a singles match. The evening also features a legends doubles match, with 2001 Wimbledon doubles champion Don Johnson teaming with 1986 French Open singles finalist Mikael Pernfors to go up against 1993 French Open doubles champ Luke Jensen and 2005 U.S. Open singles semifinalist Robby Ginepri.

"This is probably the finest lineup of pros we've ever had," Madisen's Match founder Duane Chaney said. "It's world-class tennis, and best of all, it's for a good cause."

Proceeds from the Golisano Children's Hospital Pro Tennis Classic and all Madisen's Match events benefit local cancer treatment programs. Madisen's Match has raised more than $1 million since it began in 2009 as a tribute to Madisen Abramson, Chaney's niece, who was diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumor at age 3.

Madisen is now a relatively healthy teenager who regularly appears at the annual Madisen's Match VIP Gala and Auction, which takes place this year on Saturday, March 16. Madisen's Match also includes a Legends Tennis Camp

The main event will be held indoors for just the second time. Last year's Golisano Children's Hospital Pro Tennis Classic was the first indoor tennis event ever held in Southwest Florida, with a custom hardcourt surface laid down in place of the basketball court at Suncoast Credit Union Arena.

Teen Challenge Golf Tournament

Fort Myers will hold its annual charity golf tournament at The Club at Shell Point on Saturday, April 13. Registration is at 7:30 a.m., and the shotgun start begins at 8:30 a.m. The tournament will feature four-man teams playing best ball in a four-man scramble format.

Team cost is $500 and individual cost is $130. Register by April 3. This event is mainly to promote awareness of the local Teen Challenge ministry and its success. Teen Challenge holds the highest success rate in the nation for graduates staying sober.

The Club at Shell Point is located at 17500 On Par Boulevard in Fort Myers. For more information, to register or sponsor the tournament, contact James Cox at 275-1974 or swfl. media@teenchallenge.cc or visit www. swfloridamensrehab.com.

Coast Guard Boating Class

U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary is offering the one day About Boating Safely class at the Pine Ridge Community Center on Saturday, March 16 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. This beginner boating class will provide knowledge needed to obtain the FWC safety certification. Many boat insurance companies will offer discounts on boating insurance to boaters who successfully complete the class.

Class presenters are trained professionals of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary. Nick Kaveski, the flotilla commander of Flotilla 91 stated, "People are very busy today, and this one class can fit easily into most everyone's calendar. Unlike online classes, this program offers student interaction, shared perspectives and local area knowledge."

Cost is $45 per person and includes study material. Advance registration is required. Call 690-6780 option 1 or visit www.aux91fmb.org/safeboating.

The Pine Ridge Community Center is located at 15608 Pine Ridge Road in Fort Myers. For more information, please visit www.cgaux.org.*

A merica's Boating Club and the San Carlos Bay Sail & Power Squadron will be conducting its popular Local Waters Chart Reading class in the squadron classroom on Saturday, March 23 from 8 a.m. to noon.

The class will teach students how to read local waters chart 11427. Students will learn the basics of latitude and longitude, how to find where they are and how to get to where they want to go and how to take bearings.

There are a very limited number of charts in the classroom, so students are strongly urged to bring the chart to class. Charts are best purchased online from Ocean Grafix. Be sure to order the mapfold version. Cost is $45 for a single and $70 for two people sharing the materials. Cost includes a divider and a plotter.

San Carlos Bay Sail & Power Squadron is located at 16048 San Carlos Boulevard in Fort Myers. Students can register online at www.scbps.com or call 466-4040 and leave a message.

Twins Celebrity Golf Classic Benefit

Twins players, coaches and alumni

Minnesota Twins players, coaches and alumni joined baseball fans and business sponsors at the 21st annual Minnesota Twins Celebrity Golf Classic, which raised more than $95,000 to support Lee Health programs at Regional Cancer Center.

The Golf Classic featured Twins legends Bert Blyleven, Tony Oliva, Dan Gladden, Joe Nathan and a mix of current and former coaches and players, each of whom was paired with a foursome of golfers. With an 18-hole score of 54 in the best ball scramble format, the winning team was Travis McGuire, Justin Fugua, Justin Hostings, Rusty Calfus and Oliva, an eight-time MLB all-star and 2000 Twins Hall of Fame inductee.

The Golf Classic was at The Club at Gateway in Fort Myers and included lunch, hole-in-one prizes, cocktails, dinner and sports memorabilia offered through both silent and live auctions.

Proceeds from the Golf Classic will support the new integrative medicine program by Lee Health at the Regional Cancer Center, Southwest Florida's ee Association for Remarkable Citizens (LARC) is celebrating their 65th anniversary in Southwest Florida with a campaign to support an innovative educational program for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

LARC Celebrates Milestone With Campaign

In recognition of their anniversary on March 12, LARC has set a fundraising goal of $65,000 and is kicking things off with a $20,000 Matching Challenge made possible by two anonymous $10,000 donors. The funds will support LARC's newest program – LAB: Learn, Achieve, Become. LAB will offer an experiential learning environment that transforms traditional program areas into spaces for innovation, vocation, demonstration and learning. Five Labs will focus on skills for work, residency and leisure.

"With more than 3,700 children in Lee County schools with cognitive disabilities, LAB is creating opportunities for the people we serve now and the generations to come," said Angela Katz, LARC director of development. "Our community can help LAB become a reality by supporting our March fundraising campaign and impact can be doubled through our match challenge. Naming opportunities are available and donors of $1,000 or more will be designated LARC Superheroes in the LAB."

LARC's Adult Day Training program is designed to enhance abilities and help individuals live a happier, more productive and independent life. Activities include self-care and daily living skills, as well as a variety of pre-vocational and life skill opportunities. Opportunities are provided to increase fine and gross motor activities, communication skills, academic skills, positive behavioral approaches, independent living skills, social skills and recreation and leisure skills. More than 167,000 hours of life skills training were provided last year.

LARC's Campus Employment creates new jobs, generates taxes and increases consumer spending through paid wages. LARC partners with 50 local businesses to provide packaging and assembly work and LARC's Woodshop constructs and sells custom wood products. Last year, 45,000 hours of paid wages were paid through campus employment opportunities. LARC's Community and Employment LARC's Community and Employment Support Services provide ongoing assistance to individuals who live in their home including medical, medication and money management, grocery shopping, obtaining benefits, exploration of community resources, and any and all other needs. Supported Employment is a service for individuals who require support services to obtain and succeed in competitive employment. More than 250 individuals are employed through LARC programs.

LARC's main campus is located at 2570 Hanson Street in Fort Myers. To

Local Hospitals Among The Best In The Nation

Four Lee Health adult acute care hospitals have been named among America's Best Hospitals for 2019, a distinction that places them in the top 5 percent of hospitals nationwide, according to Healthgrades, a leading online resource for information about physicians and hospitals. This designation rewards hospitals that consistently exhibit comprehensive quality care across all clinical areas.

"We are honored that Healthgrades named all four of our adult acute care hospitals among the nation's best. This shows that patients from all corners of Lee County can be confident they are receiving world-class care when they walk through the doors at any Lee Health hospital. Each of our hospitals being named among the top 5 percent in the country is a testament to Lee Health's culture and our team's dedication to creating a caring and healthy environment for our patients," said Scott Kashman, Lee Health's chief acute care officer.

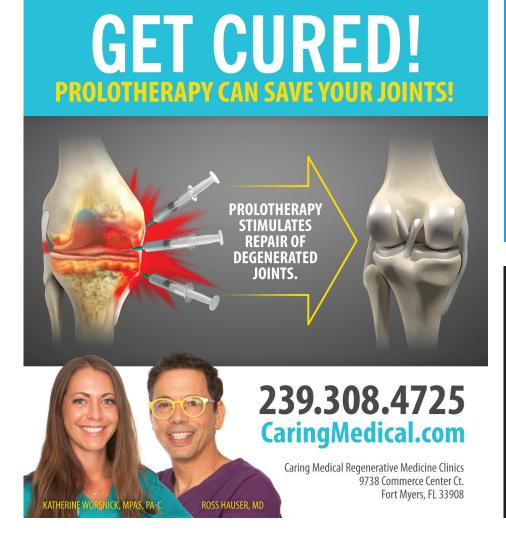

Cape Coral Hospital, Gulf Coast Medical Center, HealthPark Medical Center and Lee Memorial Hospital are four of 18 Florida hospitals including in the grouping. Being in the top 5 percent means patients at Lee Health hospitals are less likely to experience medical or surgical complications and have the best chances for survival during and after hospitalization.

The list is based entirely on clinical quality outcomes for 32 conditions and procedures. Healthgrades evaluates hospital performance for more than 4,500 hospitals across the nation annually based on Medicare inpatient data from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services Medicare Provider Analysis and Review (MedPAR) database. No hospital can opt-in or opt-out, nor can they pay to be evaluated.

First Pediatric Asthma-Friendly Outpatient Clinics

Four Lee Physician Group (LPG) primary care clinics became the first pediatric outpatient offices in the state to be designated platinum-level "Asthma-Friendly" by the Florida Asthma Coalition (FAC). This is the highest level of recognition the coalition awards and highlights outpatient centers that create a safe and healthy environment for patients with asthma.

"We are proud and honored to be the first pediatric clinics in Florida to earn an 'asthma-friendly' designation. LPG is committed to being a leader for the advancement of health and healing and to help our patients receive the care they need to build happier, healthier lives," said Kris Fay, chief administrative officer for LPG.

Pediatric clinics in Bonita Springs, Cape Coral, Fort Myers and Lehigh Acres each had to meet specific criteria that were designed to improve asthma care and outcomes for patients. The criteria to achieve platinum-level recognition include:

Professional development for nurses and respiratory therapists on asthma management

Professional development for physicians on asthma management

Team-based approach for efficient, comprehensive and patient-centered care

persistent asthma

Self-management education that meets the national EPR-3 guidelines for asthma diagnosis and management

Multicomponent home-based asthma education

Implementation of an asthma quality improvement process

Last year, the FAC designated Golisano Children's Hospital of Southwest Florida as the fourth "Asthma-Friendly" hospital in the state.

Lee Health already helped day care centers and school districts throughout Southwest Florida work toward Asthma-Friendly designation.

"The Florida Asthma Coalition has done a great job of creating a set of standard goals for the team treatment of asthma, which affects about 9 million children in the U.S. The treatment of these children is really a team effort, so it is very rewarding to see all different clinical and non-clinical partners coming together to provide these children with a healthier and more active life. We are proud to be recognized as one of the team members striving to keep our pediatric community in tip top shape," said Piedade Silva, M.D., pediatrician and medical director for the clinics recognized.

The Lee Health Child Development Centers were also honored at the FAC 2019 Summit when they received the platinum-level "Asthma-Friendly" recognition for Child Care Centers.

Marked by episodes of coughing, wheezing, chest tightness and breathlessness, asthma is common among children. In fact, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention note that, on average in a classroom of 30 children, about four are likely to have asthma. It is important for children to understand what triggers an attack and how to take their medications and treat their asthma.

New And Novel Ways To Treat Diabetes

by Suzy Cohen, RPh

Part Readers: Diabetes affects millions of people each year, and some of the complications are fatal.

There are many natural remedies, as well as dietary interventions.

Traditional medications include those that attempt to correct blood glucose, insulin sensitivity, beta cell function or inflammatory compounds. They only go so far, and they cause serious nutrientdepletions (i.e., drug mugging).

depletions (i.e., drug mugging). Lately, there has been a lot in the news about diabetes, and I keep up with it since I have a best-selling book on the topic, Diabetes Without Drugs.

One quick side note. A long time ago, probably 10 years ago, I wrote publicly about how statins could lead to hyperglycemia. Unfortunately, some more research today proves I had every right to warn you this past decade. The March 2019 issue of the British Journal of Clinical Pharmacology just published an article that shows how statins increase risk of developing diabetes by up to 38 percent.

Statin cholesterol medications can easily predispose a person to developing diabetes. After a few months or years, you suddenly need to take medications for diabetes, in addition to your original statin med. The offending agents are not just statins, there are dozens of prescription and over-thecounter medications which negatively impact your blood glucose levels, glycation end products and overall insulin sensitivity.

Here is more news and research that came out recently:

Antivirals – Weird but true, people treated with antivirals slashed their risk of diabetes by half. The treatment used was a combination of Interferon and Ribavirin and the patient population studied had Hepatitis C infection. Those people who were not medicated had higher risk of diabetes development, equating to about 20 percent of the participants. Those treated with the medication exhibited an incidence of just 10 percent.

Cinnamon – A new meta-analysis which reviews many pieces of scientific literature has concluded that supplementation with cinnamon reduces blood sugar levels by approximately 19 mg/dL. It may not impact A1C or insulin levels.

Pomegranate – New research shows that pomegranate seeds (and peel) can protect against diabetic nephropathy. Your kidneys are the filtration system for your body. When they don't work well, toxins build up in your body and make you itch, and lead to swollen feet and ankles, irregular heartbeat, shortness of breath, fatigue, confusion and poor appetite. You can eat pomegranate seeds easily, and maybe that's all you need. As for pomegranate peel, this is commercially available as a purified, powdered item, however, be careful because there are sometimes allergic reactions, similar to any fruit peel.

Nutrients – People with diabetes often experience painful neuropathy all over their body, especially in their hands and feet. The pins and needles, and burning sensations are very difficult to treat. B vitamins help to form myelin, the protective coating on your nerves. New research was published in the February 2019 issue of Biochemical and Biophysical Research Communications.

This animal study suggests that Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) is helpful in reducing visceral pain and painful limb sensations caused by neuropathy.

Grant Recipient Of Children's Charities

ighthouse of SWFL was selected as a recipient of a $22,000 grant from Southwest Florida Children's Charities Inc. at the recently held 2019 Southwest Florida Wine & Food Fest. Staff and children participants of the Blind Babies & Children's Programs proudly volunteered at the event.

These generous funds will provide innovative toys and equipment for a creative play space area and after school sports program, which will significantly aid in developing skills for independence for babies and children with major vision loss.

The Blind Babies and Children's Programs offered at Lighthouse of SWFL provide vital services and resources to children and their families to develop independent living skills, prevent developmental delays and improve cognitive, social and emotional skills, to name a few.

Lighthouse of SWFL is a United Way partner agency serving individuals with blindness and vision impairment in Lee, Glades and Hendry counties. The mission of the Lighthouse of SWFL is to enable people of all ages living with a visual impairment or blindness to remain independent, active and productive in society.

Lighthouse of SWFL, a nationally accredited agency, is funded by the Division of Blind Services, United Way, Lee County Government, and other private donors. For more information, visit www.lighthouseswfl.org, or call 997-7797.*

Doctor and Dietician Have You Been Wronged?

by Ross Hauser, MD and Marion Hauser, MS, RD

ave lies been told about you? Do you feel you were unfairly fired I from your job? Were promises broken? At some point in our lives, we will all feel the pangs of being wronged. And when we are, it's natural to be angry and to want justice. But justice isn't always possible on this side of heaven. You may even have good reason to be seething, but the anger can eat you up. And while your feelings are understandable, clinging to them is not the best thing. It will simply rob your joy and sense of closeness with others. Don't get stuck in the quicksand of painful emotions.

Lee Hospitals Increase Quality Medicare Ratings

ast week the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) released their 2019 Five-Star Quality Ratings, awarding Cape Coral Hospital, Gulf Coast Medical Center, HealthPark Medical Center and Lee Memorial Hospital with three stars. The scores reflect recent improvements undertaken by the health system to continue improving its quality of care for the Southwest Florida community.

"The CMS star rankings are an important measure of hospital quality and safety, and we are honored to be recognized for the level of care we provide patients in Southwest Florida. Thank you to all of the doctors, advanced providers, nurses and support staff at our hospitals for their commitment to providing compassionate, high quality and safe care in our hospitals," said Larry Antonucci, MD, MBA, Lee Health president and CEO.

CMS created the Five-Star Quality Rating System to help consumers, their families and caregivers compare hospitals more easily. The scores are based on previously reported quality and safety data points including, patient satisfaction, value and outcomes, among others.

"The 5-star rating program has been a catalyst to further strengthen the quality of care offered at Lee Health. We are committed to being a national leader in consumed by anger and the feelings of being wronged? First, choose what's right. You can hold onto anger and exist in a prison of bitterness, or you can choose to forgive. Yes, it happened, and it was unfair, but the mental gymnastics are just stealing from your life now. Stop fighting the fact that it happened and choose to participate in your future, rather than getting stuck in the past. Responding negatively will only negatively transform you. Act in a way that will make you feel proud of yourself a year or so from now. What a great way to make steps towards healing.

Take time to soothe yourself and heal. Spend time with positive, supportive and healing people. Do fun stuff. Laugh! Focus on nurturing activities and take care of yourself by staying active, eating healthy and getting enough sleep. It's probably inevitable and unavoidable that we'll get hurt in this life, and we may never quite understand. But be the one to make the world a better place. Nurture yourself, nurture others and use it to become a stronger, happier and heathier you.

the advancement of health and healing, and are confident our efforts will continue to deliver positive results. We are proud of the quality of care we provide at Lee Health and will continue to use the CMS report to identify opportunities for improvement. We are grateful for the tireless work of our entire Lee Health team, especially our caregivers, as we further explore how to improve the services we provide to our community," said Scott Kashman, Lee Health's chief acute care officer.

The updated CMS rankings follow recent recognitions Lee Health has received for quality and safety. This month all four Lee Health adult acute care hospitals were named among America's Best Hospitals for 2019, a distinction that places them in the top five percent of hospitals nationwide, according to Healthgrades, a leading online resource for information about physicians and hospitals. This designation rewards hospitals that consistently exhibit comprehensive, quality care across all clinical areas.

In 2018, three Lee Health hospitals earned A grades with one hospital, HealthPark Medical Center, only .03 points away from an A grade in the Leapfrog Group's bi-annual hospital safety grades. The group also named Golisano Children's Hospital of Southwest Florida a top hospital for the third straight year, one of only three children's hospitals in the nation to receive this honor.

Snap Bean and Sweet Pepper Sauté

1 pound snap beans, stems trimmed

1 each red and yellow bell pepper, seeded and julienne

2 teaspoons olive oil 4 cloves garlic, finely chopped

1/2 lemon, juiced Sea salt and fresh ground black pepper, to taste

In a large sauté pan, heat the olive oil over medium-high heat. Carefully add the bell pepper, cook for about 1 minute. Add the beans and cook for 3 to 5 minutes. Add the garlic and continue cooking for another minute or until crisp-tender. Add lemon juice and toss before serving.

CONSTRUCTION/REMODELING

My Stars *******

FOR WEEK OF MARCH 18, 2019

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Although you tend to bore easily and leave others to finish what you start, this is one time when you'd be wise to complete things on your own. Then you can move on to something new.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Your indecision about a personal situation might come out of those mixed signals you're getting. Best not to make any commitments until you have a better sense of how things are going.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20) A dispute appears to be getting out of hand. But you should be able to step in and bring it all under control soon. Be patient. News about a potential career move might be delayed.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22) Career obligations could interfere with important personal plans. But using a combination of common sense and compromise helps resolve the dilemma to everyone's satisfaction.

Leo (July 23 to August 22) A stressful situation drains some of your energy reserves. But you soon bounce back in time to finish your tasks and enjoy a well-deserved weekend getaway.

Virgo (August 23 to September 22) This is a good time to throw a party for friends and colleagues, and surprise them with your dazzling domestic skills. You also might want to reconsider that career move you put on hold.

Libra (September 23 to October 22) A sudden change of mind by someone you relied on could cause a delay in moving ahead with your plans. But those whom you've helped out before are prepared to return the favor.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21) You start the week feeling too shy to speak up in front of others. However, your self-assurance soon takes over, giving you the confidence you need to make yourself heard.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) One way to deal with a pesky personal dilemma this week is to meet it head-on. Insist on an explanation of why the situation reached this point and what can be done to change it.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19) The creative Capricorn finds several outlets for her or his talents this week. Also note that while a romantic connection looks promising, remember to allow it to develop on its own.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 18) You stand out this week as the best friend a friend can have. But be careful that you don't take too many bows, or you might see gratitude replaced with resentment.

Pisces (February 19 to March 20) What seems to be an ideal investment should be checked out thoroughly before you snap at the offer and find yourself hooked by an expensive scam.

Born This Week: Your wisdom is matched by your generosity. You are a person who people know they can rely on.

MOMENTS IN TIME

• On March 20, 1345, according to scholars at the University of Paris, the Black Death plague is created from what they call "a triple conjunction of Saturn, Jupiter and Mars in the 40th degree of Aquarius." The Black Death left an estimated 25 million dead. It's now known that bubonic plague is carried by fleas.

• On March 19, 1842, French writer Honore de Balzac's play Les Ressources de Quinola opens to an empty house. Hoping to create a buzz for the play, Balzac had circulated a rumor that tickets were sold out. Unfortunately, most of his fans stayed home.

• On March 18, 1937, nearly 300 students in Texas are killed by an explosion of natural gas at their school. Officials at the New London school had been persuaded to save money by tapping into less stable wet-gas lines that ran nearby. The blast was felt 40 miles away.

• On March 21, 1952, the first rock and roll concert in history is held in Cleveland, hosted by legendary disk jockey Alan Freed. Police were overwhelmed when an estimated 20,000-25,000 fans swarmed the Moondog Coronation Ball, held in an arena with a capacity of only 10,000.

• On March 24, 1965, the first "teach-in" is conducted at the University of Michigan as 200 faculty members hold special anti-war seminars. This form of protest spread to many colleges and universities.

• On March 22, 1983, the Pentagon awards a contract worth more than $1billion to AM General Corp. to produce 55.000 High Mobility Multipurpose Wheeled Vehicles. Nicknamed the Humvee, the rugged vehicles were used by the U.S. military. In 1992, a civilian version, the Hummer, went on sale.

• On March 23, 1994, Wayne Gretzky scores his 802nd goal, breaking his childhood idol Gordie Howe's NHL record for most goals in a career.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

• It is still not known who made the following sage observation: "The difference between 'involvement' and 'commitment' is like an eggs-and-ham breakfast: The chicken was 'involved'; the pig was 'committed.'"

• Those who study such things say that if you were (for reasons unspecified) to eat the liver of a polar bear, you'd die. The amount of vitamin A stored in that organ constitutes a fatal dose for humans.

• You might be surprised to learn that high-quality opals can be more valuable than diamonds.

• John Tyler, born March 29, 1790, was the 10th president of the United States. He was married twice and had a total of 15 children. These children, collectively, were witness to a surprisingly large swath of American history. The oldest, Mary Tyler Jones, was born in 1815, the year that saw the end of the War of 1812; the youngest, Pearl Tyler Ellis, survived until 1947, two years after the end of World War II.

• The next time you're planning a trip to Indiana, keep in mind that in that state it is illegal to talk behind a person's back or engage in "spiteful gossiping."

• In 1915, the average annual income for a family in the United States was $687, the equivalent of $17,088 today.

• In 1889, a magazine called The Literary Digest made the following prediction: "The ordinary 'horseless carriage' is at present a luxury for the wealthy, and although its price will probably fall in the future, it will never, of course, come into as common use as the bicycle.

• Squirrels are wonderful foresters. Every year, thousands of trees grow from caches of nuts and acorns that squirrels forgot about.

Take FAFSA Verification Process Seriously

he federal government requires many students who submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) to verify the information on the FAFSA. The students are chosen by the U.S. Department of Education.

Used to apply for most federal and many state student aid programs, the FAFSA asks detailed questions about the income and resources of students.

HORTOONS

Parents are required to provide their information as well if their children are dependent students. Students are considered dependent if they are undergraduate students under 24 years old, not married, have no dependents of their own, are not veterans or were not orphans or wards of the court until age 19

The college or, in some cases, an agency working with the college will contact students to let them know if their data is being verified.

Students and parents need to take that process seriously, according to Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). Students chosen for verification cannot receive their financial aid until they have completed the process. As soon as they are contacted, they should provide any information that is required. Putting it off will only lead to frustration if the process isn't finished when classes are ready to start.

If students have decided not to attend a college that asked them for verification, they should let the college know so it will stop requesting information.

For more information about those services, visit www.kheaa.com.🕸
